The False Traitor Albert Raimundo Braz, 2003-01-01 The nineteenth century M tis politician and mystic Louis Riel has emerged as one of the most popular and elusive figures in Canadian culture Since his hanging for treason in 1885 the self declared David of the New World has been depicted variously as a traitor to Confederation a French Canadian and Catholic martyr a bloodthirsty rebel a pan American liberator a pawn of shadowy white forces a Prairie political maverick a First Nations hero an alienated intellectual a victim of Western industrial progress and even a Father of Confederation Albert Braz synthesizes the available material by and about Riel including film sculpture and cartoons as well as literature in French and English and analyzes how an historical figure could be portrayed in such contradictory ways In light of the fact that most aesthetic representations of Riel bear little resemblance not only to one another but also to their purported model Braz suggests that they reveal less about Riel than they do about their authors and the society to which they belong The most comprehensive treatment of the representations of Louis Riel in Canadian literature The False Traitor will be a seminal work in the study of this popular Canadian figure

History of Literature in Canada Reingard M. Nischik, 2008 The development of literature in Canada with an eye to its multicultural multiethnic multilingual nature From modest colonial beginnings literature in Canada has arrived at the center stage of world literature Works by English Canadian writers both established writers such as Margaret Atwood and new talents such as Yann Martel make regular appearances on international bestseller lists French Canadian literature has also found its own voice in the North American and francophone worlds CanLit has likewise developed into a staple of academic interest pursued in Canadian Studies programs in Canada and around the world This volume draws on the expertise of scholars from Canada Germany Austria and France tracing Canadian literature from the indigenous oral tradition to the development of English Canadian and French Canadian literature since colonial times Conceiving of Canada as a single but multifaceted culture it accounts for specific characteristics of English and French Canadian literatures such as the vital role of the short story in English Canada or that of the chanson in French Canada Yet special attention is also paid to Aboriginal literature and to the pronounced transcultural ethnically diverse character of much contemporary Canadian literature thus moving clearly beyond the traditions of the two founding nations Contributors Reingard M Nischik Eva Gruber Iain M Higgins Guy Lafleche

When Tish Happens Frank Davey, 2011-04 In the early 1960s a group of students at UBC started a magazine called Tish. The name was purposefully an anagram of shit in order to demonstrate their youthful and iconoclastic attitude. In many ways Tish and its editors became the clear break from older Canadian poets and styles. At the heart of the magazine and the movement was Frank Davey. And it is Davey who has written this definitive history. Davey has organized the material as a memoir starting from his own early days in Abbotsford B C and gradually introducing the other poets including George Bowering Daphne Marlatt and Fred Wah despite the fact that Davey doesn t meet them until they all arrive at UBC. Much of the theory of the Tish poets derives from the Black Mountain poets an American movement that incorporated the writings of Charles Olson Robert Creeley and Robert Duncan who suggested the name itself. The Black Mountain poets believed that writing should be locally based and should grow out of the author s own breathing patterns. The more specific to a locale the better. The poets are introduced as characters in a play and when Fred Wah says Let s start a magazine things happen. The first 19 issues became the calling card for a new type of poetry but inevitably the writers began to go their own way. It is Davey s commitment that holds the group together despite their geographical separation. The Tish movement provided the impetus to create a new more contemporary Canadian poetry. And here Frank Davey reveals how it started grew and became a lasting force.

Disunified Aesthetics Lynette Hunter, 2014-07-15 Aesthetics is a field still rooted in an understanding of a unified process where small numbers of people produce commodify and consume objects called art. Disunified Aesthetics deconstructs the literary object by invoking the critic s stance toward the written works with which they engage. Lynette Hunter s performative explorations provide a distinctly different way of understanding contemporary creative processes. Disunified Aesthetics takes up twenty first century aesthetics through an investigation of recent Canadian writing. The book is both a series of insights into literature and poetics of the last two decades and a story about moving from a traditional view of the relation between the artist art and its reception to a more radically democratic view of aesthetics and ethics. Hunter addresses a range of Canadian women s writing as well as close studies of the work of Robert Kroetsch Lee Maracle Nicole Brossard Frank Davey Alice Munro Daphne Marlatt and bpNichol. Disunified Aesthetics is a creative challenging and original investigation of textuality performance and aesthetics by a leading and innovative scholar.

Cultural Institutions of the

Novel Deidre Lynch, William Beatty Warner, 1996 The story of the development of the novel its origin rise and increasing popularity as a narrative form in an ever expanding range of geographic and cultural sites is familiar and according to the contributors to this volume severely limited In a far reaching blend of comparative literature and transnational cultural studies this collection shifts the study of the novel away from a consideration of what makes a particular narrative a novel to a consideration of how novels function and what cultural work they perform from what novels are to what they do The essays in Cultural Institutions of the Novel find new ways to analyze how a genre notorious for its aesthetic unruliness has become institutionalized defined legitimated and equipped with a canon With a particular focus on the status of novels as commodities their mediation of national cultures and their role in transnational exchange these pieces range from the seventeenth century to the present and examine the forms and histories of the novel in England Nigeria Japan France New Zealand Canada and the United States Works by Jane Austen Natsume S seki Gabriel Garc a M rquez Buchi Emecheta and Toni Morrison are among those explored as Cultural Institutions of the Novel investigates how theories of the novel and disputes about which narratives count as novels shape social struggles and are implicated in contests over cultural identity and authority Contributors Susan Z Andrade Lauren Berlant Homer Brown Michelle Burnham James A Fujii Nancy Glazener Dane Johnson Lisa Lowe Deidre Lynch Jann Matlock Dorothea von M cke Bridget Orr Clifford Siskin Katie Trumpener William B Warner
