Eurekas and Euphorias Walter Gratzer,Walter Bruno Gratzer,2004 The march of science has never proceeded smoothly It has been marked through the years by episodes of drama and comedy of failure as well as triumph by outrageous strokes of luck deserved and undeserved and sometimes by human tragedy It has seen deep intellectual friendships as well as ferocious animosities and once in a while acts of theft and malice deceit and even a hoax or two Scientists come in all shapes the obsessive and the dilettantish the genial the envious the preternaturally brilliant and the slow witted who sometimes see further in the end the open minded and the intolerant recluses and arrivistes From the death of Archimedes at the hands of an irritated Roman soldier to the concoction of a superconducting witches brew at the very close of the twentieth century the stories in Eurekas and Euphorias pour out told with wit and relish by Walter Gratzer Open this book at random and you may chance on the clumsy chemist who breaks a thermometer in a reaction vat and finds mercury to be the catalyst that starts the modern dyestuff industry or a famous physicist dissolving his gold Nobel Prize medal in acid to prevent it from falling into the hands of the Nazis recovering it when the war ends mathematicians and physicists diverting themselves in prison cells and even in a madhouse by creating startling advances in their subject We witness the careers sometimes tragic sometimes carefree of the great women mathematicians from Hypatia of Alexandria to Sophie Germain in France and Sonia Kovalevskaya in Russia and Sweden and then Marie Curie s relentless battle with the French Academy Here then a glorious parade unfolds to delight the reader with stories to astonish to instruct and most especially to entertain

Facing Gaia Bruno Latour, 2017-09-05 The emergence of modern sciences in the seventeenth century profoundly renewed our understanding of nature For the last three centuries new ideas of nature have been continually developed by theology politics economics and science especially the sciences of the material world The situation is even more unstable today now that we have entered an ecological mutation of unprecedented scale Some call it the Anthropocene but it is best described as a new climatic regime And a new regime it certainly is since the many unexpected connections between human activity and the natural world oblige

every one of us to reopen the earlier notions of nature and redistribute what had been packed inside So the question now arises what will replace the old ways of looking at nature This book explores a potential candidate proposed by James Lovelock when he chose the name Gaia for the fragile complex system through which living phenomena modify the Earth The fact that he was immediately misunderstood proves simply that his readers have tried to fit this new notion into an older frame transforming Gaia into a single organism a kind of giant thermostat some sort of New Age goddess or even divine Providence In this series of lectures on natural religion Bruno Latour argues that the complex and ambiguous figure of Gaia offers on the contrary an ideal way to disentangle the ethical political theological and scientific aspects of the now obsolete notion of nature He lays the groundwork for a future collaboration among scientists theologians activists and artists as they and we begin to adjust to the new climatic regime
