Dance Through Time Terry Dance-Bennink,2024-01-18 Born in the UK and raised in the US Terry Dance Bennink found her way to Toronto as a university student in 1966 A sixties activist who never stopped she became a peace advocate civil rights campaigner women s rights defender union organizer adult educator environmental activist and democracy champion Dance Through Time traces the author's evolution from youthful Marxism to electoral politics to peaceful civil disobedience. As a spiritual seeker, Terry relies on her faith to overcome personal and political obstacles. Born a Catholic, she becomes an atheist during her Marxist years, then returns to progressive Christianity in the nineties, joining the United Church when she moves to Victoria, B.C. She eventually calls herself a Buddhist Christian with no church address. A heart-breaking divorce, childlessness, breast cancer, and blindness challenge her, along with despair about the fate of the earth. But her belief in a power greater than fallible human beings, the great mystery, sustains her as she keeps pushing forward. In mid-life, Terry encounters the man in her dreams, her second husband, and builds a truly formidable career in both the non-profit and public sectors as an impassioned, spiritually informed advocate for adult education, proportional representation, Indigenous peoples, old-growth forests, and so much more. Seventy-five years later, Terry is still on the front lines to save B.C.'s ancient forests and combat climate change. Dance Through Time revisits the revolutionary potential of the sixties and celebrates the enduring power of political solidarity, forgiveness, and spiritual connection.

Identity Politics and Popular Culture in Taiwan Hsin-I Sydney Yueh, 2016-12-07 In the past two decades, a uniform representation of cutified femininity prevails in the Taiwanese media, evidenced by the shift of Taiwan's popular cultural taste from a Chinese-centered tradition to a mixed absorption from neighboring cultural capitals in the global market. This book argues that the native term sajiao is the key to understand the phenomenon. Originally referring to a set of persuasive tactics through imitating a spoiled child's gestures and ways of speaking to get attention or material goods, sajiao is commonly understood to be women's weapon to manipulate men in the Mandarin-speaking communities. By re-interpreting sajiao as a feminine tactic or the tactic of the weak, the book aims to propose a feminine framework in exploring identity politics in the following three aspects: the rising obsession with the immature female image in Taiwan's popular culture; the adoption of the feminine communication style in native speakers' everyday language and interactions; and the competing discourses between dominant/subordinate, central/peripheral, global/local, and Chinese/Taiwanese in shaping the identity politics in current Taiwanese society. The micro analysis of everyday language politics leads the reader to examine layers of discourse about gender identity and communication and finally to inquire how to situate or categorize Taiwan in area studies The feminine framework is a useful theoretical tool that not only deconstructs everyday communication practice but also provides a bottom up alternative angle in analyzing Taiwan's role in political economic and cultural flows in East Asia The massive imports of popular cultural products in the late 80s mainly from Japan fermented the kawaii Japanese cute type of femininity in regulating everyday communication and the perception of gender roles in Taiwan The popularity of the baby like female image is concurrent with the simmering debate on Taiwanese identity Taiwan offers a unique perspective for observing identity politics because it still holds an undetermined status in the international community The collective uncertainty about the island's future and the diminishing voice in the international society become the backdrop for the growth of defining interpreting and appropriating sajian elements in the popular culture This book offers an in depth examination of the interplay among local historical contexts cross border capitalist exchange and everyday communication that shapes the dialogism of Taiwanese identity
