The Illicit Trade in Art and Antiquities Janet Ulph, Ian Smith, 2015-11-05 This new text provides practical guidance on the modern law relating to cultural objects which have been stolen looted or illegally exported It explains how English criminal law principles including money laundering measures apply to those who deal in cultural objects in a domestic or international setting It discusses the recovery of works of art and antiquities in the English courts where there are competing claims between private individuals or between individuals and the UK Government or a foreign State. Significantly, this text also provides an exposition of the law where a British law enforcement agency or a foreign law enforcement agency is involved in the course of criminal or civil proceedings in an English court. The growth of relevant international instruments which include not only those devoted to the protection of mankind's cultural heritage but also those concerned with money laundering and serious organised crime provide a backdrop to this discussion. The UK's ratification of the UNESCO Convention on Means of Prohibiting and Preventing the Illicit Import, Export and Transfer of Ownership of Cultural Property 1970 in 2002 is considered. The problems posed in attempting to curb trafficking in art and antiquities are explored and the effectiveness of the current law is analysed.

The Emergence of EU Contract Law Lucinda Miller, 2011-09-22. The emergence of a pan-European contract law is one of the most significant legal developments in Europe today. The Emergence of EU Contract Law: Exploring Europeanization examines the origins of the discipline and its subsequent evolution. It brings the discussion up to date with full analysis of the debate on the Common Frame of Reference and the future that this ambiguous instrument may have in the contemporary European legal framework. One of the central themes of the book is exploration of the multi-level open architecture of the EU legal order and the implications of that architecture for the EU's private law programme. The analysis demonstrates that the key to understanding European contract law in the 21st century lies in adopting a perspective and mechanisms suitable for a legal order populated by multiple sources of private law. Legal pluralism is offered as a theoretical construct with the capacity to shape the future of European private law, shifting the analytical spotlight beyond the traditional centralized legislative means of regulation. In so doing, softer mechanisms are introduced for the governance of contract law mechanisms that enable coordination between the different sites at which contract law operates. This reorientation in thinking about European contract law indeed about Europeanization itself enables the inevitable diversity and pluralism that is a feature of multi-level Europe to be captured within a framework that maximizes the opportunities for mutual learning and exchange across private law sites.
