Making Fast Food From The Frying Pan Into The Fryer:

Making Fast Food Ester Reiter, 1996 Some say the adventurous days of grueling and dangerous scientific exploration are long gone but Reiter sociology Brock U undertook a 10 month trek without pay into the uncharted wilds of a Burger King kitchen to bring us first hand accounts of the strange and marvellous customs of the natives The illustrations are hilarious Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Making Fast Food Ester Reiter, 1991-09-03 The flourishing fast food industry represents one particular blueprint of how to live Reiter analyses the profound consequences of this blueprint for many spheres of life women s work youth employment the labour movement the family and the community Since the 1970s young people and women have increasingly entered the job market in low waged service sector jobs Family life she explains has changed dramatically in the last forty years as many activities that were traditionally part of the home have been replaced by services available in the marketplace The production of meals and those who produce them have moved from the family kitchen to the highly regulated corporate workplace where workers are like the interchangeable parts of a machine

Fast Food Nation Eric Schlosser, 2001 An exploration of the fast food industry in the United States from its roots to its long term consequences Making Fast Food Ester Reiter, 1996 The Oxford Handbook of Food History Jeffrey M. Pilcher, 2012-10-16 Food matters not only as a subject of study in its own right but also as a medium for conveying critical messages about capitalism the environment and social inequality to diverse audiences Recent scholarship on the subject draws from both a pathbreaking body of secondary literature and an inexhaustible wealth of primary sources from ancient Chinese philosophical tracts to McDonald s menus contributing new perspectives to the historical study of food culture and society and challenging the limits of history itself The Oxford Handbook of Food History places existing works in historiographical context crossing disciplinary chronological and geographic boundaries while also suggesting new routes for future research The twenty seven essays in this book are organized into five sections historiography disciplinary approaches production circulation and consumption of food The first two sections examine the foundations of food history not only in relation to key developments in the discipline of history itself such as the French Annales school and the cultural turn but also in anthropology sociology geography pedagogy and the emerging Critical Nutrition Studies The following three sections sketch various trajectories of food as it travels from farm to table factory to eatery nature to society Each section balances material cultural and intellectual concerns whether juxtaposing questions of agriculture and the environment with the notion of cookbooks as historical documents early human migrations with modern culinary tourism or religious customs with social activism In its vast interdisciplinary scope this handbook brings students and scholars an authoritative guide to a field with fresh insights into one of the most fundamental human concerns Understanding Global Environmental Politics M. Paterson, 2000-04-07 Understanding Global Environmental Politics develops a new critical approach to global environmental politics It argues that the major power structures of world politics are deeply problematic in ecological terms and that they cannot be easily used to resolve major environmental challenges such as global warming. Instead of simply advocating the construction of new international institutions to respond to such challenges, therefore, the book argues that the construction of alternative social and political structures is necessary.

The Canadian Labour Movement Craig Heron, Charles Smith, 2020-06-01 In The Canadian Labour Movement, historian Craig Heron and political scientist Charles Smith tell the story of Canada's workers from the mid-nineteenth century through to today, painting a vivid picture of key developments such as the birth of craft unionism, the breakthroughs of the fifties and sixties, and the setbacks of the early twenty-first century. The fourth edition of this book has been completely updated with a substantial new chapter that covers the period from the great recession of 2008 through to 2020. In this chapter, Smith describes the fallout of the financial crisis, how Stephen Harper's government restricted labour rights, the rise of the gig economy and precarious work, and the continued de-industrialization in the private sector. These pressures contributed to fracturing the movement, as when Unifor, the largest private sector union, split from the Canadian Labour Congress, the established house of labour. Through it all, rank and file union members have fought for better conditions for all workers, including through campaigns like the fight for a $15 minimum wage. The Canadian Labour Movement is the definitive book for anyone interested in understanding the origins, achievements, and challenges of the labour and social justice movements in Canada.

Agricultural Standards Jim Bingen, Lawrence Busch, 2006-03-08 Food and agricultural standards have recently risen to the top of both national and international agendas. Popular concerns about the power of the World Trade Organization focus on the intertwined relationships between environmental protection, labor, and human rights, and the standards used to produce and supply our food and fiber globally. In the developing world, agricultural grades and standards are an important part of the reconfiguration of roles and responsibilities between various public and private actors in market reform. This original and informative collection of studies of agri-food standards in the modern economy addresses these and helps to define the scope of the emerging study of the politics of standards setting. Following an overview essay dealing with the multiple ways of thinking about approaching and defining food and agricultural standards, eleven case studies offer a rich body of evidence that assesses the processes, dynamics, and potential consequences of global agri-food standards. For all interested in the strategic use of food and agricultural standards, from those in national and international governmental agencies, researchers, and others in the academic and private sector to those in the private business sector, this volume offers a broader perspective on and will serve as an important resource.

The Eclipse of Morality Lawrence Busch, Using the works of Bacon Hobbes and Adam Smith as well as historical examples drawn from the last two centuries Busch shows how the ideas initially proposed by these thinkers became reified as scientism statism and marketism systems of belief that a single mode of ordering could solve the riddle of society and thereby supplant moral responsibility Busch contrasts this approach with concrete examples of successful attempts to extend democracy into these areas to create multiple orderings so that moral responsibility is neither crushingly heavy on individuals nor unbearably light on society

Standards Lawrence Busch, 2013-08-16 An investigation into standards the invisible infrastructures of our technical moral social and physical worlds Standards are the means by which we construct realities There are established standards for professional accreditation the environment consumer products animal welfare the acceptable stress for highway bridges healthcare education for almost everything We are surrounded by a vast array of standards many of which we take for granted but each of which has been and continues to be the subject of intense negotiation In this book Lawrence Busch investigates standards as recipes for reality Standards he argues shape not only the physical world around us but also our social lives and even our selves Busch shows how standards are intimately connected to power that they often serve to empower some and disempower others He outlines the history of formal standards and describes how modern science came to be associated with the moral technical project of standardization of both people and things Busch suggests guidelines for developing fair equitable and effective standards Taking a uniquely integrated and comprehensive view of the subject Busch shows how standards for people and things are inextricably linked how standards are always layered even if often addressed serially and how standards are simultaneously technical social moral legal and ontological devices countries Key features include an overview of the McDonald s Corporation s development and structure an analysis of its corporate culture and the issues of franchising an examination of key union strategies including systems of co determination consultation and collective bargaining a chapter dealing specifically with European legislation in particular the McDonald s European Works Council The author systematically analyzes the conflict between the McDonald s Corporation and the industrial relations systems of the European countries within which it operates and exposes this conflict as an unequal struggle between economic liberalism and collectivism
