Hallett, 2016-02-15 The First World War was the first total war Its industrial weaponry damaged millions of men and drove whole armies underground into dangerously unhealthy trenches Many were killed Many more suffered terrible life threatening injuries wound infections such as gas gangrene and tetanus exposure to extremes of temperature emotional trauma and systemic disease In an effort to alleviate this suffering tens of thousands of women volunteered to serve as nurses Of these some were experienced professionals while others had undergone only minimal training But regardless of their preparation they would all gain a unique understanding of the conditions of industrial warfare Until recently their contributions both to the saving of lives and to our understanding of warfare have remained largely hidden from view By combining biographical research with textual analysis Nurse writers of the great war opens a window onto their insights into the nature of nursing and the impact of warfare An electronic edition of this book is freely available under a Creative Commons CC BY NC ND licence Legacy of Silver Colleen L. Christine E. Hallett, 2017-11-30 The Ypres Salient saw some of the bitterest fighting of the First World War The once fertile fields of Flanders were turned into a quagmire through which men fought for four years In casualty clearing stations on ambulance trains and barges and at base hospitals near the French and Belgian coasts nurses of many nations cared for these traumatized and damaged men Drawing on letters diaries and personal accounts from archives all over the world The Nurses of Passchendaele tells their stories faithfully recounting their experiences behind the Ypres Salient in one of the most intense and prolonged casualty evacuation processes in the history of modern warfare Nurses themselves came under shellfire and were vulnerable to aerial bombardment and some were killed or injured while on active service Alongside an analysis of the intricacies of their practice the book traces the personal stories of some of these extraordinary women revealing the courage resilience and compassion with which they did their work
