Nutrition, Well-Being and Health Jaouad Bouayed, Torsten Bohn, 2012-02-23 In our modern society expectations are high also with respect to our daily diet In addition to being merely nutritious i e supplying a variety of essential nutrients including macro nutrients such as proteins or micro nutrients such as minerals and vitamins it is almost expected that a good diet offers further advantages especially well being and health and the prevention of chronic diseases which are as we generally tend to grow older and older becoming a burden to enjoying private life and to the entire society These additional qualities are often sought in diets rich also in non nutritive components such as phytochemicals In contrast to drugs which are taken especially to cure or ameliorate diseases it is expected that a healthy diet acts in particular on the side of prevention allowing us to become old without feeling old In the present book rather than trying to give an exhaustive overview on nutritional aspects and their link to well being and health selected topics have been chosen intended to address presently discussed key issues of nutrition for health presenting a reasonable selection of the manifold topics around diet well being and health from the antioxidants polyphenols and carotenoids aroma active terpenoids to calcium for bone health back to traditional Chinese Medicine Diversity and change in food wellbeing Anke Niehof, Hom N. Gartaula, Melissa Quetulio-Navarra, 2023-08-07 This volume presents recent research on food and nutrition in Indonesia Philippines Vietnam and Nepal The overall theme is food wellbeing which is seen as having two key components food and nutrition security and food sovereignty The cases cover a diversity of contexts ranging from indigenous communities and rural villages to the urban environment The studies highlight the subjective dimensions of food wellbeing such as values attached to certain foods and emic meanings of food security and nutrition and show how these may divert from objective assessments of food and nutrition security Another pervasive theme is the relational dimension of food wellbeing visible in the importance of social capital for access to food and the role of gender relations in intra household food distribution While change is an integral factor in all studies three deal specifically with the outcomes of interventions aimed at improving food and nutrition security at the local level It shows how outcomes may be different than expected and how an intervention may have a positive spill over effect on others than the targeted beneficiaries in this way contributing to food sovereignty Together the studies reveal the meanings and feelings behind food data in various contexts

Nutrition and Health in Developing Countries Richard David Semba, Martin W. Bloem, 2001-04-25 The Nutrition and Health series of books have as an overriding mission to provide health professionals with texts that are considered essential because each includes 1 a synthesis of the state of the science 2 timely in depth reviews by the leading researchers in their respective fields 3 extensive up to date fully annotated reference lists 4 a detailed index 5 relevant tables and figures 6 identification of paradigm shifts and the consequences 7 virtually no overlap of information between chapters but targeted inter chapter referrals 8 suggestions of areas for future research and 9 balanced data driven answers to patient health professionals questions which are based upon the totality of evidence rather than the findings of any single study The series volumes are not the outcome of a symposium Rather each editor has the potential to examine a chosen area with a broad perspective both in subject matter as well as in the choice of chapter authors The international perspective especially with regard to public health initiatives is emphasized where appropriate The editors whose trainings are both research and practice oriented have the opportunity to develop a primary objective for their book define the scope and focus and then invite the leading authorities from around the world to be part of their initiative The authors are encouraged to provide an overview of the field discuss their own research and relate the research findings to potential human health consequences
