

WHAT IS A SAND DUNE?

A sand dune is a mound or ridge of sand formed by the wind in deserts, beaches, or other sandy areas. They are typically shaped by the constant movement of wind, which carries sand grains and deposits them into piles.

Sand dunes vary in size, shape, and formation, ranging from small ripples to large hills. These formations can range from subtle undulations akin to small ripples, which may form along the windward side of a beach or desert

Sand dunes play important roles in coastal protection, providing habitats for unique plant and animal species adapted to sandy environments, and serving as landmarks in desert landscapes.

Squires, 2023-12-15 Volume 2 of the book Sand Dunes of the Northern Hemisphere is sub titled Characteristics Dynamics and Provenance of Sand Dunes in the Northern Hemisphere It brings together a vast body of information and insight into sand dune and desert systems from North Asia Central Asia North Africa and the Middle East Chapters from the Russian Federation include studies on dune systems within the permafrost zone and there is a case study from temperate zone dune system in coastal Japan Volume 2 Characteristics Dynamics and Provenance of Sand Dunes in the Northern Hemisphere of 16 chapters in three Parts focusses on Saharan Africa Egypt and Middle East and gives attention to sand mobility and encroachment with case studies from a number of countries where these matters are of concern We also include chapters on the remote dunes in the permafrost zone and in the hyper arid deserts of Iran Case studies are used to highlight the characteristics of dunes and their interaction with humans in several widely divergent settings Volume 2 concludes with some musing on the value of study of the past as key to the future and speculates on what the future might hold in the light of a warmer and drier Earth and a rise in sea level that threaten large tracts of low lying land with marine incursions and destruction from storm surge PART 4 Sand Mobility and Encroachment The seven chapters in this Part examine the real world impact of sand encroachment and dune migration on people and their economic activities and the health welfare and financial implications related to destruction of infrastructure including human habitations PART 5 Sand Dune Landscapes Distribution Formation and Management Seven Case studies from several geographic regions in Africa the Middle East north east Asia are presented here to demonstrate the underlying mechanisms in dune formation and the diverse approaches to their management Human impacts such as sand mining tourism development combine with natural forces like climate variability to challenge the realization of an optimum management strategy PART 6 Concluding Thoughts Coping with an Unknown Future from a Little known Past The two chapters in Part 6 have special roles We are privileged to publish new research findings that are summarized here in Chapter 38 from extensive and detailed work conducted in the Kyzyl Kum and Karakum sand seas of Central Asia There is a strong belief that further study of the little known past such as revealed in this study could unlock clues as to what a future Earth might look like This leads on to speculation in Chapter 39 about the implications of what we already know about global change not only climate change and the impact of the Anthropocene on the dune systems both inland and coastal Sea level rise marine incursions and an increase in extreme weather events will affect dune systems and sand seas on the Northern Hemisphere and beyond

Sand Dunes of the Northern Hemisphere Qi Lu, Mahesh K. Gaur, Victor R. Squires, 2023-03-10 This book in two volumes and with a foreword by the renowned Professor M A J Williams draws on evidence from coastal and inland regions including desert dunes wind blown dust river and lake sediments glacial moraines plant and animal fossils isotope geochemistry soils and prehistoric archaeology to better understand the genesis and development of dunes systems in selected northern hemisphere sand dunes from Asia Africa and the Middle East regions The collection of research papers and case studies that are presented in this book provide the reader with a wealth of information about the distribution and types of sand dunes and an insight into the complexity of sand dune formation migration and management Research in many countries across the northern hemisphere shows that dunes whether coastal or inland are under pressure around the world Much of the pressure comes from human activities and the anthropogenic disturbance when coupled with global warming and alterations to the amount frequency and temporal distribution of precipitation could lead to more serious management challenges in the future There is much that we still need to find out about the origin genesis and development of sand dunes so that they can be managed better The difficult and complex questions being repeatedly raised can be answered only by interdisciplinary endeavours Geomorphologists geologists palaeontologists climatologists ecologists and others can work together on research projects that better define the origin evolution and development of dunes both inland and along the coasts Many chapters in this book attempt to reconstruct past climatic changes in deserts and their margins at a variety of scales in space and time in the expectation that such information might assist in preparing us for future global warming and drying
