✓ Exclusively available on IvyPanda

Introduction

The ultimate of nursing practice is to complete the link or cycle of care delivery within the healthcare system. Professionals in this field collaborate with physicians and clinicians to ensure that high-quality services are available to the greatest number of patients. This paper gives a detailed analysis of my personal philosophy of nursing. It describes why I chose this field, my beliefs and values, and vision for the future. My current limitations and strengths are also outlined in this discussion.

Choice of Nursing

There are various reasons that explain why I pursued nursing as my career field. Firstly, my childhood dream was to join a profession that would empower me to meet the health needs of different patients. Secondly, one of my expectations is to support others and ensure that they address most of the challenges they face in their lives. Thirdly, I believe that I have a calling to work as a nurse. Camargo et al. (2018) indicate all nurse practitioners (NP) should be selfless, empathic, and sympathetic. The possession of such attributes explains why I have been able to achieve my goals as a practitioner.

Fourthly, nursing is one of the outstanding careers that give people an opportunity to engage in continuous learning and acquire additional skills. Such gains can make them successful in life and overcome the problems they face. This kind of understanding encouraged me to pursue such a career path. These explanations show that I will always meet the diverse health needs of my patients and guide them to transform their experiences.

William R. LaFleur, 2022-11-03 William LaFleur 1936 2010 an eminent scholar of Japanese studies left behind a substantial number of influential publications as well as several unpublished works The most significant of these examines debates concerning the practice of organ transplantation in Japan and the United States and is published here for the first time This provocative book challenges the North American medical and bioethical consensus that considers the transplantation of organs from brain dead donors as an unalloyed good It joins a growing chorus of voices that question the assumption that brain death can be equated facily with death It provides a deep investigation of debates in Japan introducing numerous Japanese bioethicists whose work has never been treated in English It also provides a history of similar debates in the United States problematizing the commonly held view that the American public was quick and eager to accept the redefinition of death A work of intellectual and social history this book also directly engages with questions that grow ever more relevant as the technologies we develop to extend life continue to advance While the benefits of these technologies are obvious their costs are often more difficult to articulate Calling attention to the risks associated with our current biotech trajectory LaFleur stakes out a highly original position that does not fall neatly onto either side of contemporary US ideological divides

The Good Samaritan Nurse in a Secular Age Teresa Lynch, 2023-08-24 Christian and other nurses in the hostile modern and increasingly secular age may feel helpless in an environment that created the Liverpool Care Pathway LCP and continues to foster end of life care through sedation and dehydration The book aims to enlighten both health professionals and the public alike to their rights of conscience and knowledge of the needs of vulnerable patients whether related to ethical care or guidance and the law which can affect them Indifference to patients needs and suffering may be injurious to nurses health all of whom have a conscience This must be respected protected and used as a guide to truly care for the patient's benefit regardless of laws and professional pathways which may prove harmful to many vulnerable patients. The questioning nurse on ethical issues and dilemmas needs consideration, respect and support when attempting to act as the patient advocate. Managers at all levels need to be aware of the concerns of front line nurses and to be mindful that recruitment and retention are both equally important factors for the quality of patient care and nurse morale and work satisfaction. The NHS was a wonderful creation which is only as good as its staff at all levels. Its managers and government ministers must remember that the more authority invested in them the more the accountability and transparency expected by both health professionals, their patients and the public.
