Art Markets and Digital Histories Claartje Rasterhoff, Sandra van Ginhoven, 2020-03-16 This Special Issue of Arts investigates the use of digital methods in the study of art markets and their histories As historical and contemporary data is rapidly becoming more available and digital technologies are becoming integral to research in the humanities and social sciences we sought to bring together contributions that reflect on the different strategies that art market scholars employ to navigate and negotiate digital techniques and resources The essays in this issue cover a wide range of topics and research questions Taken together the essays offer a reflection on what takes to research art markets which includes addressing difficult topics such as the nature of the research questions and the data available to us and the conceptual aspects of art markets in order to define and operationalize variables and to interpret visual and statistical patterns for scholarship In our view this discussion is enriched when also taking into account how to use shared or interoperable ontologies and vocabularies to define concepts and relationships that facilitate the use and exchange of linked open data for cultural heritage and historical research

Photography and the Arts Juliet Hacking, Joanne Lukitsh, 2020-10-29 Photography both in the form of contemporary practice and that of historical material now occupies a significant place in the citadels of Western art culture. It has an institutional network of its own embedded within the broader art world with its own specialists including academics, critics, curators, collectors, dealers, and conservators. All of this cultural activity consolidates an artistic practice and critical discourse of photography that distinguishes what is increasingly termed art photography from its commercial, scientific, and amateur guises. But this long-awaited recognition of photography as high art brings new challenges. How will photography's newly privileged place in the art world affect how the history of creative photography is written? Modernist claims for the medium as having an aesthetic often turned on precedents from painting. Postmodernism challenged a cultural hierarchy organized around painting. Nineteenth-century photographs move between the symbolic spaces of the gallery wall and the archive, decontextualised for art and recontextualised for history. But what of the contemporary writings, images, and practices that negotiated an aesthetic status for the photographic? Photography and the Arts revisits practices both celebrated and elided by the modernist and postmodernist grand narratives of art and photographic history in order to open up new critical spaces. Written by leading scholars in the fields of photography, art, and literature, the essays examine the metaphorical as well as the material exchanges between photography and the fine graphic, reproductive, and sculptural arts.

A Companion to Photography Stephen Bull, 2020-02-03. The study of photography has never been more important. A look at today's digital world reveals that a greater number of photographs are being taken each day than at any other moment in history. Countless photographs are disseminated instantly online, and more and more photographic images are earning prominent positions and garnering record prices in the rarefied realm of top art galleries. Reflecting this dramatic increase in all things photographic, A Companion to Photography presents a comprehensive collection of original essays that explore a variety of key areas of current debate around the state of photography in the twenty-first century. Essays are grouped and organized in themed sections including photographic interpretation, markets, popular photography, documents, and fine art, and provide comprehensive coverage of the subject. Representing a diversity of approaches, essays are written by both established and emerging photographers and scholars, as well as various experts in their respective areas. A Companion to Photography offers scholars and professional photographers alike an essential and up-to-date resource that brings the study of contemporary photography into clear focus. Proceedings of the 2024 8th International Seminar on Education, Management and Social Sciences (ISEMSS 2024) Lu Chang, Gabriel Antunes de Araujo, Lei Shi, Qian Zhang, 2024-10-31. This is an open access book. The conference will focus on educational management and social studies, discussing key challenges and research directions for the development of the field, promoting the development and application of theories and methods in the field in universities and enterprises, and providing a favorable platform for innovative scholars and experts focusing on the field of research to exchange new ideas and present their research results.
