David Brazer, Michael B Matsuda, 2023-10-12 A visionary blueprint for educational reform that envisions school systems as opportunity engines preparing young citizens for future workplace success civic engagement and fulfilling lives Educating for Purposeful Life documents positive change within the Anaheim Union High School District whose overarching mission is to prepare high school graduates who possess a clear sense of purpose and the capacity to achieve their goals Superintendent Michael Matsuda and education consultant David Brazer lay out the district's innovative approaches to organizing leading teaching and learning They demonstrate how education policy organization theory and external partnerships work together within this grades 7-12 district to scaffold student success resulting in greater high school graduation rates and four-year college matriculation and persistence rates A rousing account of effective school reform this work illuminates the district's Career Preparedness Systems Framework which integrates affective and cognitive development opportunities trade and professional development programs and community engagement efforts Matsuda and Brazer show how this framework combined with a strengths-based approach that recognizes and affirms students' individual life experiences helps meet the educational needs of all students including those from traditionally underserved populations Presenting secondary education as a means to support democracy address employability gaps and elevate student voice and purpose this thought-provoking work provides ample ideas for how other districts might engage in educating for purposeful life English/language Arts Curriculum Resource Handbook ,1992 Building Writing Center Assessments That Matter Ellen Schendel, William J. Macauley, 2012-10-16 No less than other divisions of the college or university contemporary writing centers find themselves within a galaxy of competing questions and demands that relate to assessment questions and demands that usually embed priorities from outside the purview of the writing center itself Writing centers are used to certain kinds of assessment both quantitative and qualitative but are often unprepared to address larger institutional or societal issues In Building Writing Center Assessments that Matter Schendel and Macauley start from the kinds of assessment strengths already in place in writing centers and they build a framework that can help writing centers satisfy local needs and put them in useful dialogue with the larger needs of their institutions while staying rooted in writing assessment theory The authors begin from the position that tutoring writers is already an assessment activity and that good assessment practice rooted in the work of Adler Kassner O Neill Moore and Huot already reflects the values of writing center theory and practice They offer examples of assessments developed in local contexts and of how assessment data built within those contexts can powerfully inform decisions and shape the futures of local writing centers With additional contributions by Neal Lerner Brian Huot and Nicole Caswell and with a strong commitment to honoring on site local needs the volume does not advocate a one size fits all answer But like the modeling often used in a writing consultation examples here illustrate how important assessment principles have been applied in a range of local contexts Ultimately Building Writing Assessments that Matter describes a theory stance toward assessment for writing centers that honors the uniqueness of the writing center context and examples of assessment in action that are concrete manageable portable and adaptable
