McClendon III, 2019-05-03 Black Christology and the Quest for Authenticity A Philosophical Appraisal constitutes a philosophical inquiry on Black Theology and its attendant Black Christology Explicitly the philosophical examination of Black Theology conceptually maps its quest for establishing Black Christology as an authentic form within Christian theology This text critically expounds on the methodologies and arguments which guide how Black Theology specifically affirms Black Christology as the definitive paradigm for authentic Christianity Significantly the racialized character of Black Theology immediately sets this discourse within the context of philosophy of race Clearly the philosophy of race in terms of its substance and scope is continually expanding Notably the philosophy of religion in its conceptual association with the African American experience considerably enriches the content of the philosophy of race Therefore Black Christology and the Quest for Authenticity A Philosophical Appraisal stands as a unique contribution to philosophy of race Summarily while this book tackles the formidable problem of Christian theological subject matter nonetheless the reader must be aware that this is not a work executed methodologically in any theological manner inclusive of Christian theology Subsequently while the object of our investigation substantively remains theological in character the method of investigation is guided by philosophical inquiry which is based on secular principles Furthermore although most mainstream works in philosophy of religion along with theology neglect to examine African American theologians and philosophers the subject matter of Black Christology substantially facilitates in filling this intellectual void The Construction of the Supernatural in Euro-American Cultures

Benson Saler, 2021-12-02 This book describes aspects of the concept of the supernatural from the intellectual history of Euro American cultures These samplings shed light on issues in the study of religions and religion rather than attempting to provide either a lineally coherent or exhaustive account of a somewhat fraught and complicated notion Observations include uses of the term among the ancient Greeks and medieval Christian theologians and 19th and 20th century social scientists This book highlights more recent academics who draw on the cognitive and evolutionary sciences in attempting to make sense of recurrent features of the representations and meta representations of different cultures This includes such counter intuitive notions as the mysterious among the Wayuu of Columbia and Venezuela and vampires in Europe and North America These observations are concluded in a final essay Toward a Realistic and Relevant Science of Religion which presents considered opinions on how we might draw on the cognitive and evolutionary sciences to establish the foundations for a genuinely scientific study of religions and religion Benson Saler sadly passed away shortly after writing this book An appreciation of his work written by Armin W Geertz is included in this volume

The God Who Is Hans Schwarz, 2011-01-01 Who is the God in whom Christians believe Is he just a figment of the human mind as critics of religion claimed in the nineteenth century and as crusading atheists assert again today Since the beginnings of rational thought the brightest minds among humanity have attempted to assert that God does indeed exist But even the so called proofs for God s existence always started with the assumption that there is someone to prove As soon as we move beyond that which is within space and time mere proofs or disproofs no longer suffice Both believers and unbelievers live to a certain degree by faith Yet religion is inextricably connected with human history When we journey through the landscape of religion and witness its gradual unfolding we soon realize that not all religions are equal Though they may be witnesses of the same God the way they talk about God is so different that this not only leads to very different concepts of God but also to different approaches to life on this earth At the end of this long journey we finally arrive at the Judeo Christian tradition which witnesses to the God in whom Christians believe This book seeks to show how this belief matured and what difference this belief still makes today assess these phenomena in individual cases and how to intervene in psychotherapy The book ventures to evaluate the status of the profession of psychology with respect to prejudice stigmatization and oppression by critically examining evidence that the profession has responded adequately to these social problems These issues are hard to talk about and are not well talked about in the field This book is a push in the right direction

War, Peace & Prosperity in the Name of God Murat Iyigun, 2015-05-07 Differences among religious communities have motivated and continue to motivate many of the deadliest conflicts in human history But how did political power and organized religion become so thoroughly intertwined And how have religion and religiously motivated conflicts affected the evolution of societies throughout history from demographic and sociopolitical change to economic growth War Peace and Prosperity in the Name of God turns the focus on the big three monotheisms Judaism Islam and Christianity to consider these questions Chronicling the relatively rapid spread of the Abrahamic religions among the Old World Murat Iyigun shows that societies that adhered to a monotheistic belief in that era lasted longer suggesting that monotheism brought some sociopolitical advantages While the inherent belief in one true god meant that these religious communities had sooner or later to contend with one another. Iyigun shows that differences among them were typically strong enough to trump disagreements within. The book concludes by documenting the long term repercussions of these dynamics for the organization of societies and their politics in Europe and the Middle East.

Law as Profession and Practice in Medieval Europe Kenneth Pennington, Melodie Harris Eichbauer, 2016-04-15 This volume brings together papers by a group of scholars distinguished in their own right in honour of James Brundage. The essays are organised into four sections each corresponding to an important focus of Brundage's scholarly work. The first section explores the connection between the development of medieval legal and constitutional thought. Thomas Izbicki, Kenneth Pennington and Charles Reid Jr explore various aspects of the jurisprudence of the Ius commune while James Powell, Michael Gervers and Nicole Hamonic, Olivia Robinson and Elizabeth Makowski examine how that jurisprudence was applied to various medieval institutions. Brian Tierney and James Muldoon conclude this section by demonstrating two important points: modern ideas of consent in the political sphere and fundamental principles of international law attributed to sixteenth century jurists like Hugo Grotius have deep roots in medieval jurisprudential thought. Patrick Zutshi, R. H. Helmholz, Peter Landau, Marjorie Chibnall and Edward Peters have written essays that augment Brundage's work on the growth of the legal profession and how traces of a legal education began to emerge in many diverse arenas. The influence of legal thinking on marriage and sexuality was another aspect of Brundage's broad interests. In the third section, Richard Kay, Charles Donahue Jr and Glenn Olsen explore the intersection of law and marriage and the interplay of legal thought on a central institution of Christian society. The contributions of Jonathan Riley-Smith and Robert Somerville in the fourth section round out the volume and are devoted to Brundage's path breaking work on medieval law and the crusading movement. The volume also includes a comprehensive bibliography of Brundage's work.

Encyclopedia of Time H. James Birx, 2009-01-07 With a strong interdisciplinary approach to a subject that does not lend itself easily to the reference format, this work may not seem to support directly academic programs beyond general research, but it is a more thorough and up to date treatment than Taylor and Francis's 1994 Encyclopedia of Time. Highly recommended. Library Journal. STARRED Review. Surveying the major facts, concepts, theories and speculations that infuse our present comprehension of time, the Encyclopedia of Time: Science, Philosophy, Theology, Culture explores the contributions of scientists, philosophers, theologians and creative artists from ancient times to the present. By drawing together into one collection ideas from scholars around the globe and in a wide range of disciplines, this Encyclopedia will provide readers with a greater understanding of and appreciation for the elusive phenomenon experienced as time. Features surveys of historical thought about time including those ideas that emerged in ancient Greece, early Christianity, the Italian Renaissance, the Age of Enlightenment and other periods. Covers the original and lasting insights of evolutionary biologist Charles Darwin, physicist Albert Einstein, philosopher Alfred North Whitehead and theologian Pierre Teilhard de Chardin. Discusses the significance of time in the writings of Isaac Asimov.
