Re-Inventing Labour Law Enforcement Louise Munkholm, 2020-04-30 This monograph investigates current issues in labour law enforcement from a socio legal perspective It analyses how local Italian enforcement actors promote the protection of workers in Prato a city that in recent decades has seen a significant influx of Chinese migrants who run small workshops as part of the local clothing industry Many of the Chinese firms in Prato fail to live up to core labour standards such as maximum working hours health and safety at work and payment of social security contributions The book analyses the strategies and practices employed by three local enforcement actors labour inspectors labour unionists and a new type of

Financial Alchemy in Crisis Anastasia Nesvetailova, 2010-05-07 In July 2007 the combination of a seemingly unstoppable rise in house prices and bullish banks swimming in liquidity meant that almost anyone could get a mortgage in the UK or US Little more than a month later the supply of credit dried up practically overnight leaving the world wondering how bank liquidity could suddenly vanish In Financial Alchemy Anastasia Nesvetailova shows that this liquidity never actually existed The rise of sophisticated financial instruments created what appeared to be an abundance of liquid funds but was in fact a credit pyramid As soon as house prices stopped rising the reality was exposed Nesvetailova's bold and radical analysis explains why the credit crisis was an inevitable consequence of entrusting the world economy to financiers who believe that they can create money and wealth
