Remaking Urban Scotland Michael Keating, Robin Boyle, 1986-01-01 Partnership, Collaborative Planning and Urban Regeneration John McCarthy, 2016-05-13 Approaches to urban regeneration have changed dramatically throughout Europe and the USA over recent decades drawing on notions of public private partnership growth coalitions and local spatial alliances In this engaging book John McCarthy provides critical consideration of such theories in terms of their application to practice He shows how these notions are used to explain the nature and underlying processes of urban development and to further objectives for urban regeneration To test their applicability he examines the case of Dundee including the role of the Dundee Partnership a model for many aspects of partnership working The resulting conclusions suggest ways in which the practice of urban regeneration can be improved in terms of inclusion equity and sustainability Remaking Planning Tim Brindley, Yvonne Rydin, Gerry Stoker, 2005-08-04 Remaking Planning challenges the common misconception that planning under the Conservative government has been dismantled and abandoned to market forces This new edition of a very well received text brings the original study up to date with an analysis of how planning in the 1990s has responded to continuing economic restructuring political fragmentation and social change and developed a new awareness of uncertainty and risk The book illustrates how planning remains as a never ending attempt to reconcile the demands of economic efficiency with those of democratic legitimacy Economic Development in Scotland Tim Alers, 2005-05-06 Inhaltsangabe Introduction This thesis tries to examine the structures activities changes and spatial impacts of economic development in Scotland Looking at the Scottish economy it has to be considered that Scotland is both an integrated part of the UK and the UK economy and a peripheral region within the UK Therefore Scotland does not have an economy of its own but the distinctiveness of the region in terms of location history and recent political developments justifies a closer examination of the matter Scotland is in many aspects a very heterogeneous region This is in particular true for the economic structure and a focus on one region cannot be representative Edinburgh is an exceptionally prosperous region not only in Scottish terms However this prosperity and activity in economic development makes Edinburgh an interesting subject for examination Thus the focus of this thesis lies on the developments in Edinburgh Economic development is certainly influenced by a vast number of factors and it is impossible to take all of them into account Within this thesis the emphasis lies on governmental influence on the developments However European development measures are not considered Accordingly the thesis aims to look at the ways the promotion of economic development is carried out in Scotland and tries to assess the measures on the background of the distinctiveness of Scotland and Edinburgh Thus in the first chapter the thesis takes a look at Scotland as a whole examining the physical environment the administrative framework and its recent changes Furthermore it looks at the economic legacy of the heavy industries and the recent developments in the Scottish economy Subsequently the history and institutions of the promotion of economic development in Britain and Scotland are presented The last part of the first chapter deals with the planning framework in Scotland The second chapter portrays Edinburgh's economic structure The key industries are presented briefly as are the institutions of economic development Afterwards parts of the Edinburgh development plan are examined The third chapter focuses on the Waterfront project in Edinburgh The background of waterfront revitalisation is presented The project and its participants are then examined in some detail Finally a conclusion is drawn on the developments in Edinburgh

Resurgence Michael Chisholm, 2015-03-27 The world economy has undergone rapid evolution in recent decades along with changes in the importance of industries and their organization and sharp changes in the fortunes of regions There are differences of opinion regarding the mainsprings of change and development and the role of governments in fostering national output In order to show the relevance of these changes to regional economies the book focuses on the different schools of economic thought from the neo classical through Keynesian to Marxist radical ideas and monetarist supply side thinking providing a brief description of their structure in non spatial terms The way these theories map into contrasting ideas regarding the mechanisms of regional economic growth is then explained The book concentrates on developed economies and explicitly seeks to confront theory with fact fact with theory Bringing together non spatial economic theory regional growth theory and relevant empirical data this book is intended for students in geography and regional economics but will also be of interest for those studying politics and government Governing Scotland John McCarthy, David A.

large portions of their populations Remaking the Rust Belt recounts how local leaders throughout the Rust Belt created the jobs services leisure activities and cultural institutions that they believed would attract younger educated middle class professionals In the process they abandoned social democratic goals and widened and deepened economic inequality among urban residents

Privatism and Urban Policy in Britain and the United States Timothy Kiel Barnekov, Robin Boyle, Daniel Rich, 1989 Demonstrating how cities in the United Kingdom appear to be following the American patterns of urban policy even as far as the language used this book compares urban policy and programs in both countries The authors show that the parallels between these two approaches rest on the market oriented small government political foundations of both countries but that these political similarities obscure significant differences which will make transatlantic urban policy and program transfer more difficult

Cultural Policy and Urban Regeneration Franco Bianchini, Michael Parkinson, 1993 The material in this book is based upon an academic conference held in Liverpool in 1990 which explored West European urban development and strategies by looking at commissioned studies of cities in six EC countries Britain The Netherlands France Spain Germany and Italy
