Sealed with Blood Sarah J. Purcell, 2010-08-03 The first martyr to the cause of American liberty was Major General Joseph Warren a well known political orator physician and president of the Provincial Congress of Massachusetts Shot in the face at close range at Bunker Hill Warren was at once transformed into a national hero with his story appearing throughout the colonies in newspapers songs pamphlets sermons and even theater productions His death though shockingly violent was not unlike tens of thousands of others but his sacrifice came to mean something much more significant to the American public Sealed with Blood reveals how public memories and commemorations of Revolutionary War heroes such as those for Warren helped Americans form a common bond and create a new national identity Drawing from extensive research on civic celebrations and commemorative literature in the half century that followed the War for Independence Sarah Purcell shows how people invoked memories of their participation in and sacrifices during the war when they wanted to shore up their political interests make money argue for racial equality solidify their class status or protect their personal reputations Images were also used especially those of martyred officers as examples of glory and sacrifice for the sake of American political principles By the midnineteenth century African Americans women and especially poor white veterans used memories of the Revolutionary War to articulate their own more inclusive visions of the American nation and to try to enhance their social and political status Black slaves made explicit the connection between military service and claims to freedom from bondage Between 1775 and 1825 the very idea of the American nation itself was also democratized as the role of the people in keeping the sacred memory of the Revolutionary War broadened

Writing Faith Kathleen Ashley, Pamela Sheingorn, 1999-07 Writing Faith demonstrates that clusters of miracles form sign systems and that it is those systems of meaning or representation that can be historically located Thus rather than treating individual miracle stories as transparent sources of specific historical data we can recognize representations common to groups of miracle stories as coherent historical formations For instance the negative characterizations of Muslims in the late miracles situate the stories composition in the eleventh century a period of rising hostility on the eve of the Crusades Jacket Brittany and the Atlantic Archipelago, 450-1200 Caroline Brett,Fiona Edmonds,Paul Russell,2021-10-28 Brittany is rich in arch The First Crusade Jonathan P. Phillips,1997 The First Crusade 1095 9 a mass of armed pilgrims aiming to march 4000 kilometers to the Holy Land to conquer Jerusalem was one of the most remarkable episodes in medieval history Essays from nine leading academics offer new perspectives on two main themes reconsideration of the evidence available to historians and appreciation of the Crusade s impact on the people of the eastern Mediterranean Making and Unmaking the Carolingians Stuart Airlie,2020-12-24 How does power manifest itself in individuals Why do people obey authority And how does a family if they are the source of such dominance convey their superiority and maintain their command in a pre modern world lacking speedy communications standing armies and formalised political jurisdiction Here Stuart Airlie expertly uses this idea of authority as a lens through which to explore one of the most famous dynasties in medieval Europe the Carolingians Ruling the Frankish realm from 751 to 888 the family of Charlemagne had to be ruthless in asserting their status and adept at creating a discourse of Carolingian legitimacy in order to sustain their supremacy Through its nuanced analysis of authority politics and family Making and Unmaking the Carolingians 751 888 outlines the system which placed the Carolingian dynasty at the centre of the Frankish world In doing so Airlie sheds important new light on both the rise and fall of the Carolingian empire and the nature of power in medieval Europe more generally "Every Valley Shall Be Exalted" Constance Brittain Bouchard,2017-05-31 In high medieval France men and women saw the world around them as the product of tensions between opposites Imbued with a Christian culture in which a penniless preacher was also the King of Kings and the last were expected to be first twelfth century thinkers brought order to their lives through the creation of opposing categories In a highly original work Constance Brittain Bouchard examines this poorly understood component of twelfth century thought one responsible in her view for the fundamental strangeness of that culture to modern thinking Scholars have long recognized that dialectical reasoning was the basic approach to philosophical legal and theological matters in the high Middle Ages Bouchard argues that this way of thinking and categorizing which she terms a discourse of opposites permeated all aspects of medieval thought She rejects suggestions that it was the result of imprecision and provides evidence that people of that era sought not to reconcile opposing categories but rather to maintain them Bouchard scrutinizes the medieval use of opposites in five broad areas scholasticism romance legal disputes conversion and the construction of gender Drawing on research in a series of previously unedited charters and the earliest glossa manuscripts she demonstrates that this method of constructing reality was a constitutive element of the thought of the period Pygmalion's Power Thomas E. A. Dale,2020-01-29 Pushed to the height of its illusionistic powers during the first centuries of the Roman Empire sculpture was largely abandoned with the ascendancy of Christianity as the apparent animation of the material image and practices associated with sculpture were considered both superstitious and idolatrous In Pygmalion's Power Thomas E A Dale argues that the reintroduction of architectural sculpture after a hiatus of some seven hundred years arose with the particular goal of engaging the senses in a Christian religious experience Since the term Romanesque was coined in the nineteenth century the reintroduction of stone sculpture around the mid eleventh century has been explained as a revivalist phenomenon one predicated on the desire to claim the authority of ancient Rome In this study Dale proposes an alternative theory Covering a broad range of sculpture types including autonomous cult statuary in wood and metal funerary sculpture architectural sculpture and portraiture Dale shows how the revitalized art form was part of a broader shift in emphasis toward spiritual embodiment and affective piety during the late eleventh and twelfth centuries Adding fresh insight to scholarship on the Romanesque Pygmalion's Power borrows from trends in cultural anthropology to demonstrate the power and potential of these sculptures to produce emotional effects that made them an important sensory part of the religious culture of the era
