The Polish-Lithuanian State, 1386-1795 Daniel Z. Stone,2014-07-01 For four centuries the Polish Lithuanian state encompassed a major geographic region comparable to present day Poland Lithuania Belarus Ukraine Russia Latvia Estonia and Romania Governed by a constitutional monarchy that offered the numerous nobility extensive civil and political rights it enjoyed unusual domestic tranquility for its military strength kept most enemies at bay until the mid seventeenth century and the country generally avoided civil wars Selling grain and timber to western Europe helped make it exceptionally wealthy for much of the period The Polish Lithuanian State 1386 1795 is the first account in English devoted specifically to this important era It takes a regional rather than a national approach considering the internal development of the Ukrainian Jewish Lithuanian and Prussian German nations that coexisted with the Poles in this multinational state Presenting Jewish history also clarifies urban history because Jews lived in the unincorporated private cities and suburbs which historians have overlooked in favor of incorporated royal cities In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries the private cities and suburbs often thrived while the inner cities decayed The book also traces the institutional development of the Roman Catholic Church in Poland Lithuania one of the few European states to escape bloody religious conflict during the Reformation and Counter Reformation Both seasoned historians and general readers will appreciate the many excellent brief biographies that advance the narrative and illuminate the subject matter of this comprehensive and absorbing volume Evolving Synergies

Robinson, 1995-09-01 An Intellectual History of Psychology already a classic in its field is now available in a concise new third edition It presents psychological ideas as part of a greater web of thinking throughout history about the essentials of human nature interwoven with ideas from philosophy science religion art literature and politics Daniel N Robinson demonstrates that from the dawn of rigorous and self critical inquiry in ancient Greece reflections about human nature have been inextricably linked to the cultures from which they arose and each definable historical age has added its own character and tone to this long tradition An Intellectual History of Psychology not only explores the most significant ideas about human nature from ancient to modern times but also examines the broader social and scientific contexts in which these concepts were articulated and defended Robinson treats each epoch whether ancient Greece or Renaissance Florence or Enlightenment France in its own terms revealing the problems that dominated the age and engaged the energies of leading thinkers Robinson also explores the abiding tension between humanistic and scientific perspectives assessing the most convincing positions on each side of the debate Invaluable as a text for students and as a stimulating and insightful overview for scholars and practicing psychologists this volume can be read either as a history of psychology in both its philosophical and aspiring scientific periods or as a concise history of Western philosophy's concepts of human nature Heterotopia and Heritage Preservation Smaranda Spanu, 2019-05-02 This book approaches the field of built heritage and its practices by employing the concept of heterotopia established by the French philosopher Michel Foucault. The fundamental understandings of heritage, its evolution and practices all reveal intrinsic heterotopic features: the mirror function, its utopic drive and its enclave-like nature. The book draws on previous interpretations of heterotopia and argues for a reading of heritage as heterotopia, considering various heritage mechanisms: heritage selection, conservation and protection practices and heritage as mnemonic device. In this regard, reworking the six heterotopic principles, an analysis grid is designed and applied to various built heritage spaces: vernacular, religious, architecture, urban, 19th century ensembles. Guided through this theoretical itinerary, the reader will rediscover the heterotopic lens as a minor yet promising Foucauldian device that allows for a better understanding of heritage and its everyday practices.

Maps and Travel in the Middle Ages and the Early Modern Period Ingrid Baumgärtner, Nirit Ben-Aryeh Debby, Katrin Kogman-Appel, 2019-03-04 The volume discusses the world as it was known in the Medieval and Early Modern periods, focusing on projects concerned with mapping as a conceptual and artistic practice, with visual representations of space and with destinations of real and fictive travel. Maps were often taken as straightforward, objective configurations. However, they expose deeply subjective frameworks with social, political and economic significance. Travel narratives, whether illustrated or not, can address similar frameworks. Whereas travelled space is often adventurous and speaking of hardship, strange encounters and danger, city portraits tell a tale of civilized life and civic pride. The book seeks to address the multiple ways in which maps and travel literature conceive of the world, communicate a Weltbild, depict space and/or define knowledge. The volume challenges academic boundaries in the study of cartography by exploring the links between mapmaking and artistic practices The contributions discuss individual mapmakers authors of travelogues mapmaking as an artistic practice the relationship between travel literature and mapmaking illustration in travel literature and imagination in depictions of newly explored worlds Responding to Globalization Selvaraj Velayutham,2007 Investigates the Singapore Government s approach to the construction of national identity This book focuses on the global national nexus the tensions between the necessity to embrace the global to ensure economic survival yet needing a committed population to support the perpetuation of the nation state and its economic success Cultural Exchange in Early Modern Europe Robert Muchembled,William Monter,2006 This volume surveys the crucial role of cities in shaping cultural exchange in early modern Europe
