Renaissance The Baroque The Modern World:

The Renaissance, the Baroque, the modern world Frederick Hartt, 1976 The Renaissance and the Wider World Joanne M. Ferraro, 2023-12-28 Award winning historian Joanne M Ferraro's The Renaissance and the Wider World skillfully surveys the economic political social and cultural history of Europe for the period between 1250 and 1600 The book examines how the Renaissance manifested itself through developments in the high culture of art architecture philosophy science technology and education as well as material culture in the form of worldly goods and consumption patterns Ferraro expertly shows how Renaissance high culture began in 13th century Italy with important ancient and medieval legacies and cultural infusions from China North Africa and Islam and from the 16th century the Ottomans and the Americas she also examines some of the ways in which this Renaissance then impacted the rest of Europe the Americas and the Ottoman Empire during the 15th and 16th centuries Vital and innovative themes that permeate the text's discussions of science art architecture philosophy and technology are that Global encounters helped shape the material intellectual and artistic cultures of the age Both women and men contributed significantly to the advances made The daily lives of ordinary men and women are fundamental to understanding this remarkable period Highly illustrated and with valuable pedagogical features such as timelines and a glossary The Renaissance and the Wider World is the essential guide to a European era of profound global importance

Jews in the Early Modern World Dean Phillip Bell, 2008 Jews in the Early Modern World argues that the years between 1400 and 1700 represented a discrete cohesive and important period in Jewish history Given the significant demographic shifts that began just before and ended just after this period remarkable changes occurred in the history and experiences of Jews around the world This volume begins with a broad context of Jewish experiences under medieval Christianity and Islam It then turns to the early modern period first providing an overview of Jewish demography and settlement Next the nature and structure of Jewish community and social structures in the early modern period are explored In the final two chapters this book presents a broad overview of Jewish religious and cultural life and Jewish relations with non Jews throughout the early modern period Publisher Wonder and Exile in the New World Alex Nava, 2013-06-21 In Wonder and Exile in the New World Alex Nava explores the border regions between wonder and exile particularly in relation to the New World It traces the preoccupation with the concept of wonder in the history of the Americas beginning with the first European encounters goes on to investigate later representations in the Baroque age and ultimately enters the twentieth century with the emergence of so called magical realism In telling the story of wonder in the New World Nava gives special attention to the part it played in the history of violence and exile either as a force that supported and reinforced the Conquest or as a voice of resistance and decolonization Focusing on the work of New World explorers writers and poets and their literary descendants Nava finds that wonder and exile have been two of the most significant metaphors within Latin American cultural literary and religious representations Beginning with the period of the Conquest especially with Cabeza de Vaca and

Las Casas continuing through the Baroque with Cervantes and Sor Juana In s de la Cruz and moving into the twentieth century with Alejo Carpentier and Miguel ngel Asturias Nava produces a historical study of Latin American narrative in which religious and theological perspectives figure prominently

Whiteman, 2023-04-25 Courts and societies across the early modern Eurasian world were fundamentally transformed by the physical technological and conceptual developments of their era Evolving forms of communication greatly expanded mobility the spread of scientific knowledge and the emergence of an increasingly integrated global economy all affected how states articulated and projected visions of authority into societies that in turn perceived and responded to these visions in often contrasting terms. Landscape both reflected and served as a vehicle for these transformations as the relationship between the land and its imagination and consumption became a fruitful site for the negotiation of imperial identities within and beyond the precincts of the court. In Landscape and Authority in the Early Modern World, contributors explore the role of landscape in the articulation and expression of imperial identity and the mediation of relationships between the court and its many audiences in the early modern world. Nine studies focused on the geographical areas of East and South Asia, the Islamic world, and Europe illuminate how early modern courts and societies shaped and were shaped by the landscape, including both physical sites such as gardens, palaces, cities, and hunting parks, and conceptual ones such as those of frontiers, idealized polities, and the cosmos. The collected essays expand the meaning and potential of landscape as a communicative medium in this period by putting an array of forms and subjects in dialogue with one another, including not only unique expressions such as gardens, paintings, and manuscripts, but also the products of rapidly developing commercial technologies of reproduction, especially print. The volume invites a deeper and more nuanced understanding of the complexity with which early modern states constructed and deployed different modes of landscape for different audiences and environments.

New Urban Configurations R. Cavallo, S. Komossa, N. Marzot, 2014-04-25. Urban areas have been caught up in a turbulent process of transformation over the past 50 years, and changes have been rapid, with issues such as mobility, nature, water management, energy use, and public space featuring prominently. In each Olympic year since 1988, the Faculty of Architecture at Delft University of Technology has held an international conference focusing on the connection between research and design, exploring the field of tension between science, technology, and art. This book presents the proceedings of the latest in this series of conferences, New Urban Configurations, held in Delft, the Netherlands, in October 2012, in collaboration with the European Association for Architectural Education (EAAE) and the International Seminar on Urban Form (ISUF). This edition of the conference discussed the role and critical potential of the architectural project in the transformation process of cities and territories that leads to new urban configurations. The publication contains all 140 accepted papers and a selection of the keynote lectures presented at the conference. The papers have been grouped into five main themes: innovation in building typology, infrastructure and the city, complex urban projects, green spaces, and delta urbanism. Four of these major topics are further divided into several subtopics. This book will be of interest to everyone involved in designing, building, thinking about, as well as managing the urban landscape and territory.
