

The background of the entire image is a complex, abstract pattern. It features bold, sweeping lines in shades of orange and black, creating a sense of movement and depth. In the lower portion, there are circular and organic shapes in green and black, resembling a microscopic view or a stylized landscape. The overall effect is one of dynamic energy and cultural richness.

A. Rushdy, 2003-01-14 Slavery is America's family secret a partially hidden phantom that continues to haunt our national imagination Remembering Generations explores how three contemporary African American writers artistically represent this notion in novels about the enduring effects of slavery on the descendants of slaves in the post civil rights era Focusing on Gayl Jones's Corregidora 1975 David Bradley's The Chaneysville Incident 1981 and Octavia Butler's Kindred 1979 Ashraf Rushdy situates these works in their cultural moment of production highlighting the ways in which they respond to contemporary debates about race and family Tracing the evolution of this literary form he considers such works as Edward Ball's Slaves in the Family 1998 in which descendants of slaveholders expose the family secrets of their ancestors Remembering Generations examines how cultural works contribute to social debates how a particular representational form emerges out of a specific historical epoch and how some contemporary intellectuals meditate on the issue of historical responsibility of recognizing that the slave past continues to exert an influence on contemporary American society Fields

Watered with Blood Maryemma Graham, 2014-04-25 Representing an international gathering of scholars Fields Watered with Blood now available in paperback constituted the first critical assessment of the full scope of Margaret Walker's literary career. As they discuss Walker's work including the landmark poetry collection For My People and the novel Jubilee, the contributors reveal the complex interplay of concerns and themes in Walker's writing: folklore and prophecy, place and space, history and politics, gender and race. In addition, the contributors remark on how Walker's emphases on spirituality and on dignity in her daily life make themselves felt in her writings and show how Walker's accomplishments as a scholar, teacher, activist, mother, and family elder influenced what and how she wrote. A brief biography, an interview with literary critic Claudia Tate, a chronology of major events in Walker's life, and a selected bibliography round out this collection, which will do much to further our understanding of the writer whom poet Nikki Giovanni once called the most famous person nobody knows.

Gendered Resistance Valérie Baisnée, 2023-04-24 Four major women's autobiographies of the twentieth century are discussed together here for the first time. Valérie Baisnée reinterprets the autobiographical writing of Simone de Beauvoir, Maya Angelou, Janet Frame, and Marguerite Duras, finding some striking similarities in these women's resistance to a conservative order. Deploying a variety of theoretical approaches from linguistic to Marxist, Baisnée endeavours to break the restrictive patterns of author-centred studies, to go beyond simple oppositions between truth and fiction, and to dispense with the facile interpretation of these texts as confessional. For Valérie Baisnée, autobiography is meant to represent not the true but the official version of a life, signed by the author herself and revered as hagiography by the public. Instead of analysing women's autobiographies as confessional, it is possible to see this mode of discourse as a means to counteract the effect of exposure of women's private lives. By revealing their past, however painful it may be, the four autobiographers studied in this book also enhance their present strength and therefore underline the political nature of the autobiography.

Writings on Black Women of the Diaspora Lean'tin Bracks, 2019-05-23 Toni Morrison, Alice Walker, Paule Marshall, and Mary Prince represent the best of African American women writers who draw on the tortuous legacy of their people as a source for their art, revealing and defining themselves as they create compelling narratives that illuminate their roots, their heritage, and their unique culture. The themes that suffuse their writing are family, community, strong women, cultural memory, oral history, and slavery. By analyzing the works of these four remarkable writers, the study shows how today's black woman can take control of her destiny by coming to grips with an obscured and distorted past. These original essays articulate the way in which historical awareness, sensitivity to language, and an understanding of stereotypes can empower enduring artistic visions in a world that is largely indifferent to marginal voices.

Harriet Wilson's Our Nig R.J. Ellis, 2021-10-18 Addressed to all readers of Our Nig, from professional scholars of African American writing through to a more general readership, this book explores both Our Nig's key cultural contexts and its historical and literary significance as a narrative. Harriet E. Wilson's Our Nig (1859) is a startling tale of the mistreatment of a young African American mulatto woman, Frado, living in New England at a time when slavery though abolished in the North still existed in the South Frado a Northern free black yet treated as badly as many Southern slaves of the time is unforgettably portrayed as experiencing and resisting vicious mistreatment To achieve this disturbing portrait Harriet Wilson s book combines several different literary genres realist novel autobiography abolitionist slave narrative and sentimental fiction R J Ellis explores the relationship of Our Nig to these genres and additionally to laboring class writing Harriet Wilson was an indentured farm servant He identifies the way Our Nig stands as a double first the first separately published novel written in English by an African American female it is also one of the first by a member of the laboring class about the laboring class This study explores how as a result Our Nig tells a series of disturbing two stories about America s constitutional guarantee of freedom and the way these relate to Frado s farm life
