Women in Higher Education,

1850-1970 E. Lisa Panayotidis, Paul Stortz, 2017-09-19 This edited collection illustrates the way in which women's experiences of academe could be both contextually diverse but historically and culturally similar It looks at both the micro individual women and universities and macro level comparative analyses among regions and countries within regional national trans national and international contexts The contributors integrally advance knowledge about the university in history by exploring the intersections of the lived experiences of women students and professors practices of co education and intellectual and academic cultures They also raise important questions about the complementary and multidirectional

flow and exchange of academic knowledge and information among gender groups across programmes disciplines and universities Historical inquiry and interpretation serve as efficacious ways with which to understand contemporary events and discourses in higher education and more broadly in community and society This book will provide important historical contexts for current debates about the numerical dominance and significance of women in higher education and the tensions embedded in the gendering of specific academic programs and disciplines and university policies missions and mandates

The New Buffalo Blair Stonechild,2006 Post secondary education often referred to as the new buffalo is a contentious but critically important issue for First Nations and the future of Canadian society While First Nations maintain that access to and funding for higher education is an Aboriginal and Treaty right the Canadian government insists that post secondary education is a social program for which they have limited responsibility In The New Buffalo Blair Stonechild traces the history of Aboriginal post secondary education policy from its earliest beginnings as a government tool for assimilation and cultural suppression to its development as means of Aboriginal self determination and self government With first hand knowledge and personal experience of the Aboriginal education system Stonechild goes beyond merely analyzing statistics and policy doctrine to reveal the shocking disparity between Aboriginal and Canadian access to education the continued dominance of non Aboriginals over program development and the ongoing struggle for recognition of First Nations run institutions

Count d'Esterhazy and the Esterhaz-Kaposvar Hungarian Colony in Western Canada Joseph G. Nagy,2024-09-11 Throughout the late 1800s waves of immigrants came over from Europe to North America their arrival serving a dual purpose On the one hand the immigrants were seeking a better life for themselves and their families On the other hand the Canadian federal provincial and territorial governments were seeking to populate their territory in a bid to maintain sovereignty over the land and to develop it for agriculture Among these immigrants were the Hungarian and Western Slavic settlers who founded the Esterhazy Colony which later became known as the Kaposvar and Kolin districts in southeastern Saskatchewan. A key figure in the founding of this colony was the enigmatic Count Paul O d Esterhazy a k a Janos Baptiste Packh. As an immigration agent for the Canadian and American governments he worked tirelessly not only to promote immigration to the Kaposvar and Kolin districts but also to improve the lives of the immigrants who settled there. Although d Esterhazy was not without his detractors this book takes pains to emphasize the sincerity of his vision of a Little Hungary on the Canadian Prairies and the many challenges that he and other proponents of the colony faced as they sought to see that vision fulfilled. Meticulously researched and documented this book offers a treasure trove of insight into not only the Esterhazy colony and surrounding area but also the myriad and often conflicting forces involved in the founding of Canada as a nation.
