Groarke,2023-01-15 Literature utters the unutterable not through logic not through science not through argument but through a pitch of eloquence so pronounced the conscientious reader cannot fail to pay attention Louis Groarke argues that literature is an honorific term we use to describe texts that are so overpowering they lift us to an encounter with an ineffable ultimate that is beyond logical or scientific explanation In Uttering the Unutterable he proposes a wisdom epistemology that identifies an experience of transcendence as the defining criterion of literature Offering four mutually reinforcing definitions of literature in line with Aristotle's theory of four causes Groarke compares the experience of reading to Aristotle's account of philosophical contemplation and maintains that literature has inevitable ethical content Moving beyond the Aristotelianism of the late Chicago School Groarke presents a new synthesis that breaks through essentialist stereotypes and contends that literature like religion points to an ineffable transcendental to something beyond what we can adequately explain prove systematize quantify or enclose in a theory Uttering the Unutterable explores how Aristotelian philosophy provides the most complete and compelling account of literature for philosophers literary critics and theorists Writing for an Endangered World Lawrence Buell,2009-07-01 The environmental imagination does not stop short at the edge of the woods Nor should our understanding of it as Lawrence Buell makes powerfully clear in his new book that aims to reshape the field of literature and environmental studies Emphasizing the influence of the physical environment on individual and collective perception his book thus provides the theoretical underpinnings for an ecocriticism now reaching full power and does so in remarkably clear and concrete ways Writing for an Endangered World offers a conception of the physical environment whether built or natural as simultaneously found and constructed and treats imaginative representations of it as acts of both discovery and invention A number of the chapters develop this idea through parallel studies of figures identified with either natural or urban settings John Muir and Jane Addams Aldo Leopold and William Faulkner Robinson Jeffers and Theodore Dreiser Wendell Berry and Gwendolyn Brooks Focusing on nineteenth and twentieth century writers but ranging freely across national borders his book reimagines city and country as a single complex landscape
