Nature conservation, management and physical planning Wim J. Wolff, 1983      Inshore Fisheries Management David Symes, Jeremy Phillipson, 2013-06-29 Despite their importance in terms of employment and income generation inshore fisheries have been a neglected area of study The review of the common fisheries policy especially in the light of the need to re examine the derogation which reserves access to the inshore zone to coastal state vessels provides an opportunity to redress the balance With contributions from leading authorities on fisheries management the book takes an in depth look at seven European countries examining the basis for the definition of inshore fisheries evaluating their status and describing the salient characteristics of their management The national studies form the basis for cross cultural analyses of the social organisation cultural norms economic objectives and institutional structures of inshore fisheries in Europe Finally a number of key issues relating to the future of inshore fisheries management in a more integrated approach are examined Overall the volume reaffirms the invaluable role played by inshore fisheries in the local and regional economies of Europe s complex coastline      Present and Future Conservation of the

Nations B.U. Haq, Gunnar Kullenberg, Jan H. Stel, 2013-03-09 Anthropogenic transformation of the coastal zone continues at a steady pace especially in the developing maritime countries where coastal resources are often crucial to national economies However exploitation of these resources is often indiscriminate ill planned or carried out without adequate scientific knowledge This leads to rapid resource depletion and often irreversible environmental degradation The 1992 Rio de Janeiro UN Conference on Environment and Development recognized the expediency of an integrated and sustainable use of all coastal resources functions and services grounded on sound scientific data The present volume is based on the 1994 international workshop Integrated Coastal Zone Management and brings together contributions by leading specialists both on basic concepts and on applications of coastal management The work is divided into six parts dealing with the conceptual framework of ICZM regional and global aspects of coastal management environmental assessment in ICZM capacity building and technology transfer monitoring and environmental analysis and case studies and status of ICZM plans The book also incorporates an interactive ICZM planning module COSMO which can be of use in designing a management plan for a coast Attention is also given to long term environmental effects of present day actions It is hoped that COSMO will prove an additional learning tool for ICZM practitioners and enhance the value of the book This work is intended to give a broad coverage of conceptual and technical aspects of ICZM and will be of use to operational executives as well as students of ICZM environmental economists policy makers and senior managers in the international development agencies and governmental and non governmental organizations It can be recommended as a textbook and as a reference work

Spatializing the History of Ecology Raf de Bont,Jens Lachmund,2017-06-26 Throughout its history the discipline of ecology has always been profoundly entangled with the history of space and place On the one hand ecology is a field science that has thrived on the study of concrete spatial entities such as islands forests or rivers These spaces are the workplaces in which ecological phenomena are identified observed and experimented on They provide both epistemic opportunities and constraints that structure the agenda and the analytical sensibilities of ecological researchers On the other hand ecological knowledge and practices have become important resources through which spaces and places are classified delineated explained experienced and managed The impact of these activities reaches far beyond the realms of the ecological discipline Many ecological concepts such as biotopes ecosystems and the biosphere have become entities that widely resonate in public life and policy making This book explores the mutual entanglement between space and knowledge making in the history of ecology Its first goal is to explore to which extent a spatial perspective can shed new light on the history of ecological science Second it uses ecology as a critical site to gain broader insights into the history of the environment in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Via a series of case studies discussing topics that range from ecological field stations in the early twentieth century Caribbean over wisent breeding in Nazi Germany to computer modelling in North American deserts the book offers a tour through the changing landscapes of modern ecology

Sustaining the World's Wetlands Richard Smardon,2009-06-13 Wetlands throughout the world including those described in this book are among the most sensitive and vulnerable ecosystems They are critical habitats to the world s migratory birds and a broad range of endangered mammal reptile amphibian and plant species They provide a broad range of flood storage pollution control water supply ecotourism functions to indigenous peoples and country populations as a whole They are also at the center of severe land and water use conflicts These are conflicts between countries where wetland resources or the water supplies required for such resources involve more than one country These are conflicts in use such as conflicts between habitat protection and charcoal production in mangroves. These are conflicts between groups of peoples such as indigenous peoples and hydropower advocates. Many wetlands have already been destroyed by water extractions, dams, levees, channelization and fills. Others have been degraded by water pollution, overfishing and overhunting, timber harvest and a host of other activities. This book describes these conflicts and international policies and institutions developed to protect and manage wetland resources. Most of the broader literature and other books on wetlands focuses on wildlife. Wildlife is described in the case studies which follow. But Richard Smardon provides us with more. He traces the history of conflicts and the development of policies and institutions to protect and manage wetland resources.

Vegetation between land and sea A.H.L. Huiskes, C.W.P.M. Blom, Jelte Rozema, 2012-12-06. This book was composed in honour of Dr Ir W.G. Beetsink to commemorate his retirement as a plant ecologist at the Delta Institute for Hydrobiological Research Yerseke, The Netherlands. The editors' main aim has been to collect scientific papers of Wim Beetsink's friends and colleagues. The title of the book, Vegetation between land and sea: Structure and processes, was originally proposed by Prof Dr W.H.O. Ernst. It was amended by Prof Dr J.J. Barkman. In our judgement it reflects the best attempt to cover the numerous and divergent contributions under one heading. Not all papers, however, fit the field covered by the title and we use this word both literally and metaphorically. We are glad and proud that so many authors went through the strain of the production of a paper, in most cases not scheduled with eagerness. Due to the fact that Wim Beetsink has so many close friends in the field of plant ecology, this fiber amicorum covers a wide range of disciplines covered in turn by a great variety of people. The papers range from taxonomy to experimental physiology, from fungi to seed plants, from autecology to synsystematics. Environmental pollution and management studies are also included. The contents of the papers depict Wim's personal evolution as a botanist. Retired professors as well as students are amongst the authors, heads of departments as well as technicians. It proves Wim's ability to be of one mind with all ranks.

Coastlines of the Southern North Sea Roeland Hillen, Henk Jan Verhagen, 1993. This collection contains 27 papers presented at Coastlines of the Southern North Sea, part of Coastal Zone 93, the Eighth Symposium on Coastal and Ocean Management held in New Orleans, Louisiana, July 19-23, 1993. Part of the Coastlines of the World series.

Nature Conservation in Europe Peter Bromley, 2012-12-06. The Rio Summit has pointed to the urgency for the development of an international conservation policy and the post-Maastricht debates in Europe have highlighted the need for the EU to reassess structural funding in nature conservation as well as the influences on policy and practice. This book is a route map through the legislative and policy frameworks and explains how conservation works in Europe. It goes through the policies for nature conservation in the European Community and its constituent member states and sets out the mechanisms for delivering this policy. An understanding of the European legislative framework is now vital as its influence on local practice increases. Practitioners in the fields of countryside conservation and general land management will find the book an essential guide to the working of the EU as well as helping an appreciation of their local role within the wider community objectives This will for example allow a better understanding of the grant system which many managers are now using
