Mal Nutrition documents how maternal health interventions in Guatemala are complicit in reproducing poverty Policy makers speak about how a critical window of biological growth around the time of pregnancy called the first 1 000 days of life determines health and wealth across the life course They argue that fetal development is the key to global development In this thought provoking and timely book Emily Yates Doerr shows that the control of mothering is a paradigmatic technique of American violence that serves to control the reproduction of privilege and power She illustrates the efforts of Guatemalan scientists midwives and mothers to counter the harms of such mal nutrition Their powerful stories offer a window into a form of nutrition science and policy that encourages collective nourishment and fosters reproductive cycles in which women children and their entire communities can flourish
