Janelle B. Moore, Don Philpott, 2016-07-08 Deployment comes in many forms and serves many purposes Any separation from loved ones is an emotionally difficult time for all concerned especially when children are involved but separation is now a modern day military reality Those unfamiliar with the military may not understand the nuances of short term versus long term deployments Those that do rarely gain exposure to successful strategies for handling deployments when family such as young children disabled or other special circumstances are also involved As a result military families must learn to adapt to long distance relationships as well as how to adjust and positively cope with separations for various training deployments and real life exercises The Deployment Toolkit Military Families and Solutions for a Successful Long Distance Relationship covers the basic challenges military families may face before during and after deployment At times the added stresses of military life often make things seem overwhelming Luckily the military is a huge family with scores of support groups both official and unofficial to help families prepare for separation and the stresses associated with the long absences Janelle Moore and Don Philpott provide an easily accessible self help guide to dealing with and understanding deployment The authors identify the different types of separations and deployments emotional adjustments involved and resources available to families in the military The Deployment Toolkit is essential reading for those families who need a guide through the modern day reality of military deployment and separation Risk and Resilience in U.S. Military Families Shelley

Karney,John S. Crown,2007 Recent demands on the military have raised concerns about the impact of extended deployments on military marriages To evaluate this impact the authors draw on marital status data in service personnel records to estimate trends in marriage and marital dissolution between 1996 and 2005 and the specific effects of time deployed to Afghanistan and Iraq on subsequent risk of ending a marriage The results generally run counter to expectations Although rates of marital dissolution have increased since 2001 for most services and components they had declined in the five years prior to 2001 As a result marital dissolution rates across the services and components are currently similar to those observed in 1996 when the demands on the military were measurably lower In most cases service members who were deployed had a lower risk of subsequently ending their marriages than service members who did not deploy or deployed fewer days
