School Run:

Integrations Lawrence Blum, Zoë Burkholder, 2021-05-12 Education plays a central part in the history of racial inequality in America with people of color long advocating for equal educational rights and opportunities. Though school desegregation initially was a boon for educational equality, schools began to re-segregate in the 1980s and schools are now more segregated than ever. In Integrations, historian Zoë Burkholder and philosopher Lawrence Blum set out to shed needed light on the enduring problem of segregation in American schools. From a historical perspective, the authors analyze how ideas about race influenced the creation and development of American public schools. Importantly, the authors focus on multiple marginalized groups in American schooling: African Americans, Native Americans, Latinxs, and Asian Americans. In the second half of the book, the authors explore what equal education should and could look like. They argue for a conception of educational goods including the development of moral and civic capacities that should and can be provided to every child through schooling, including integration itself. Ultimately, the authors show that in order to grapple with integration in a meaningful way, we must think of integration in the plural, both in its multiple histories and the many possible meanings of and courses of action for integration.

Run Strong, Stay Hungry Jonathan Beverly, 2017-11-21 In Run Strong Stay Hungry, running journalist Jonathan Beverly reveals the secrets of veteran racers who are still racing fast and loving the sport decades after they got their start. Beverly collects the habits and mindsets of more than 50 runners, including Bill Rodgers, Joan Benoit Samuelson, Deena Kastor, Benji Durden, Colleen De Reuck, Dave Dunham, Kathrine Switzer, and Roger Robinson. Run Strong Stay Hungry shares 9 keys from these veteran racers that let them keep running strong and staying hungry for competition. Are they biomechanically gifted? Stubborn? Simply lucky to have avoided injury? Turns out there's a lot more to it. In his comprehensive research, Beverly discovers that these runners all share specific perspectives and habits that allow them to adapt to changing life circumstances, accept declining abilities, and rebound from setbacks. These keys not only keep them on their feet but also allow them to continue to draw the same enjoyment from the sport whether they are winning championships or finishing in the middle of the pack, cranking out 100-mile weeks and doing blazing speed work on the track or squeezing in just enough miles into a busy schedule to simply feel fit and fast and occasionally test that fitness in a race. Beverly interviews over 50 runners, including Bill Rodgers, Joan Benoit Samuelson, Deena Kastor, Benji Durden, Colleen De Reuck, Dave Dunham, Kathrine Switzer, and Roger Robinson. From training methods to mental attitudes to finding community among their fellow runners, there are specific keys that help these masters runners to adapt, accept, and rebound from the hurdles that life and aging put in their path. By adopting the practices of these lifetime competitors, you too can enjoy a lifelong healthy running career as well as boost your enjoyment of running and your racing performance.

The Transport Debate Jon Shaw, Iain Docherty, 2014-01-07 At a time when transport is high on the political agenda and government decision making is being vigorously scrutinised, there is a need for an incisive and accessible analysis of the key policy issues. This book is a highly readable introduction to the transport debate from two experts in the field The authors celebrate the advantages of a modern transport system but argue that years of poorly conceived and executed transport policy have resulted in Britain's transport system being far worse than it should be They show that a substandard transport system creates economic social and environmental costs but demonstrate how these can be addressed through affordable and politically deliverable changes Using a refreshingly novel approach Shaw and Docherty use the familiar idea of the journey as the basis for their discussion The book follows members of the Smith family as they uncover a wide array of transport issues including why the problems we all encounter as we travel around actually come about which policy trade offs were responsible for creating them in the first place what impacts we all have to suffer as a result and what we can do to fix them This lively and engaging approach will make the book ideal for a wide readership

Integrating Gender into Transport Planning Christina Lindkvist Scholten, Tanja Joelsson, 2019-02-06 This edited collection brings together feminist research on transport and planning from different epistemologies with the intention to contribute to a more holistic transport planning practice With a feminist perspective on transport policy and planning the volume insists on the political character of transport planning and policy and challenges gender blindness in a policy area that impacts the everyday lives of women men girls and boys The chapters discuss everyday mobility as an embodied and situated activity in both conceptual and theoretical ways and suggest practical tools for change The contributions of this collection are threefold integrating gender research and transport planning combining quantitative and qualitative gender research perspectives and methods and highlighting the need to acknowledge the politicization of transport planning and transport practice
