Towards Equity in Mathematics Education Helen Forgasz,Ferdinand Rivera,2012-03-19 This volume gathers together twenty major chapters that tackle a variety of issues associated with equity in mathematics education along the dimensions of gender culture curriculum diversity and matters of a biological nature The pursuit of equity in mathematics education is an important concern in the history of the present Since there is no doubt about the significant role of mathematics in almost every aspect of life it means that all individuals regardless of sex in any age range and in whatever context need to be provided with an opportunity to become mathematically able The publication of this Springer volume on equity in mathematics education is situated at a time when there is strong and sustained research evidence indicating the persistence of an equity gap in mathematics which has now enabled the mathematics education community to engage in a discourse of access for all. The research studies that are reported and discussed in the volume have been drawn from an international group of distinguished scholars whose impressive forward looking and thought provoking perspectives on relevant issues incite broaden and expand complicated conversations on how we might effectively achieve equity in mathematics education at the local institutional and systemic levels. Further, the up to date research knowledge in the field that is reflected in this volume provides conceptual and practical outlines for mechanisms of change including models, examples and usable theories that can inform the development of powerful equitable practices and the mobilization of meaningful equity interventions in different contexts of mathematics education.

The Disengaged Teen Jenny Anderson, Rebecca Winthrop, 2025-01-07

Our education systems are shortchanging far too many teenagers. This book is brimming with insights on how to change that. It is an engaging, evidence based and practical read about how to develop a generation of lifelong learners.

Adam Grant, 1 New York Times bestselling author of Hidden Potential and Think Again and host of the podcast Re Thinking

A powerful toolkit for parents of both checked out and stressed out teens that shows exactly what to do and stop doing to support their academic and emotional flourishing. Adolescents are hardwired to explore and grow and learning is mainly how they do this. But a shocking majority of teens are disengaged from school, simultaneously bored and overwhelmed. This is feeding an alarming teen mental health crisis. As kids get older and more independent, parents often feel powerless to help. But fear not, there are evidence backed strategies to guide them from disengagement to drive in and out of school.

For the past five years, award winning journalist Jenny Anderson and the Brookings Institution's global education expert Rebecca Winthrop have been investigating why so many children lose their love of learning in adolescence. Now weaving extensive original research with real world stories of kids who transformed their relationships with learning, they identify four modes of learning that students use to navigate through the shifting academic demands and social dynamics of middle and high school, shaping the internal narratives about their skills, potential and identity.

Resister When kids resist, they struggle silently with profound feelings of inadequacy or invisibility which they communicate by ignoring homework, playing sick, skipping class or acting out.

Passenger When kids coast along consistently doing the bare minimum and complaining that classes are pointless, they need help connecting school to their skills, interests or learning needs.

Achiever When kids show up, do the work and get consistently high grades, their self worth can become tied to high performance. Their disengagement is invisible, fueling a fear of failure and putting them at risk for mental health challenges.

Explorer When kids are driven by internal curiosity rather than just external expectations, they investigate the questions they care about and persist to achieve their goals.

Understanding your child's learning modes is vital for nurturing their ability to become Explorers. Anderson and Winthrop outline simple yet counterintuitive parenting strategies for connecting with your child, tailoring your listening and communication styles to their needs, igniting their curiosity and building self awareness and emotional regulation.
