Schools For Growth:

Schools for Growth Lois Holzman, 1997 A passionate deconstruction and reconstruction of learning development and schooling that urges teachers to explore and create new educational opportunities for themselves and their students Schools for Growth Radical Alternatives to Current Educational Models asks the following questions Can we create ways for people to learn the kinds of things that are necessary for functional adaptation without stifling their capacity to continuously create their growth Can schools become environments that support children to perform not only as learners but as developers of their lives This book challenges educators to look at the deeply rooted assumptions about schooling learning and development and urges that the way psychology and education have constructed our conceptions of what it means to teach to learn and to grow may be the most serious impediment to the learning and developing of children Beyond the criticism the author presents an original methodological reformation of what learning and development are as relational activities and then takes readers on a visit to three radical independent school settings Arguing that current educational models have been misguided by scientific psychology the author states that the dominant model of human development actually hinders development Moreover as learning theory has become infused with developmental theory over the past 30 years the overly cognitive manner in which psychologists have come to think about thinking learning and development has become further insinuated into education Both theories learning and developmental fail to recognize the human capacity for relational revolutionary activity and for performance The prevalent mode of education acquisitional learning is grounded in a world view that gives primacy to knowledge and knowing which Holzman believes is inconsistent with ongoing developmental activity The author focuses on developmental learning a social constructionist activity theoretic conception of development which includes a transformation and synthesis of Vygotsky and philosopher Ludwig Wittgenstein She also discusses educational projects that are self conscious attempts to break with key elements of modern epistemology and the dominant psychological paradigm as they are perpetrated in contemporary educational theory and practice Their specific philosophies and practices highlight important methodological issues raised in the attempt to create postmodern schools schools more concerned with growing than knowing

Westover, Christopher Steinhauser, 2022-02-16 Guiding educators to navigate a clear and coherent path of progress for sustainable improvement Schools are the unit of change for district wide systemic improvement Creating a coherent system of equitable continuous improvement at each school site requires constructing shared depth of understanding and precision of practices among educators But how Schools on the Move provides a roadmap for reducing the variances in climate culture capacity and coherence that impede a school and all its students from realizing growth in learning It applies the transformational wisdom of Districts on the Move at the building level to guide school staff in creating an environment that makes continuous improvement not only possible but inevitable Grounded in Visible Learning research and brought to life through case studies of impactful practices in action it asserts a simplified and focused process for driving school improvement in four key areas Clarity of focus creating a shared strategic focus driven by equitable student growth Shared leadership cultivating a culture of co leading and co learning among school staff Collective expertise developing instructional coherence and precision of pedagogy Continuous improvement maintaining progress through evidence based feedback loops Full of practical tools and resources including templates for analyzing student learning and rubrics for each of the four key drivers of school improvement leaders will find the support they need in the transformational process of becoming a School on the Move

New and Better Schools Michael Q. McShane,2014-12-05 In the past decade the number of students enrolled in private school choice programs has grown ten fold But granting students access to public financing for their private education has not led to the vibrant marketplace of school options many of its supporters envisioned If school choice policy is to improve the American education landscape careful thought must be put in to understand how it can expand existing high quality schools and create new high quality schools to serve more children New and Better Schools attacks this problem from the perspective of both researchers and practitioners documenting the hurdles entrepreneurial school leaders face and offering a way forward

Preserving the Public in Public Schools Phil Boyle,Del Burns,2012 What s public about public schools Why do we invest in educating the next generation of Americans What is it that drives our common purpose in educating children and at the same time divides us so passionately about how to educate them Public schools have little to do with children Schools are political and ideological institutions in which each generation battles among itself for supremacy in determining the purposes goals and direction of public education From battles over school lunch to school dress to school prayer each generation reinterprets and recapitulates the political and ideological arguments that date back to the founding of our nation More than two centuries after the American Revolution public schools serve as political battlefields for debates about religious freedom and whether students should be allowed to wear U S flag teeshirts We invite you to join us in an exploration of the purposes of public schools the competing visions of public education and the values of the public good that comprise the public in public schools

Shuttered Schools Ebony M. Duncan-Shippy,2019-04-01 Since the late 1990s mass school closures have reshaped urban education across the United States Popular media coverage and research reports link this resurgence of school closures in major cities like Chicago and Philadelphia to charter school expansion municipal budget deficits and racial segregation However this phenomenon is largely overlooked in contemporary education scholarship Shuttered Schools Race Community and School Closures in American Cities Information Age

Publishing is an interdisciplinary volume that integrates multiple perspectives to study the complex practice of school closure an issue that transcends education Academics practitioners activists and policymakers will recognize the far reaching implications of these decisions for school communities Shuttered Schools features rigorous new studies of school closures in cities across the United States This research contextualizes contemporary school closures and accounts for their disproportionate impact on African American students With topics ranging from gentrification and redevelopment to student experiences with school loss research presented in this text incorporates various methods e g case studies interviews regression techniques and textual analysis to evaluate the intended and unintended consequences of closure for students families and communities This work demonstrates that shifts in the social economic and political contexts of education inform closure practice in meaningful ways The impacts of shuttering schools are neither colorblind nor class neutral but indeed interact with social contexts in ways that reify existing social inequalities in education Annual Report University of the State of New York. How Data Can be Used to Inform Educational Outcomes United States. Congress. House. Committee on Education and Labor,2010 Ready to Learn Tara Beteille,Namrata Tognatta,Michelle Riboud,Shinsaku Nomura,Yashodhan Ghorpade,2020-03-06 Countries that have sustained rapid growth over decades have typically had a strong public commitment to expanding education as well as to improving learning outcomes South Asian countries have made considerable progress in expanding access to primary and secondary schooling with countries having achieved near universal enrollment of the primary school age cohort ages 6 11 except for Afghanistan and Pakistan Secondary enrollment shows an upward trend as well Beyond school many more people have access to skilling opportunities and higher education today

Although governments have consistently pursued policies to expand access a prominent feature of the region has been the role played by nonstate actors private nonprofit and forprofit entities in expanding access at every level of education Though learning levels remain low countries in the region have shown a strong commitment to improving learning All countries in South Asia have taken the first step which is to assess learning outcomes regularly Since 2010 there has been a rapid increase in the number of large scale student learning assessments conducted in the region But to use the findings of these assessments to improve schooling countries must build their capacity to design assessments and analyze and use findings to inform policy
