Hugo Wolf Susan Youens, 2024-01-09 A groundbreaking look at one of the great song composers of the late Romantic period In the virtual cottage industry of works on fin de siècle Vienna Hugo Wolf 1860-1903 has been somewhat neglected perhaps because he was the master of a small genre the late Romantic lied and never truly made his mark in the larger forms that command greater public attention But in the realm of song he is among the greatest inheritors of Schubert and Schumann one who was both a traditionalist and a modernist When the Viennese critic Eduard Hanslick disapprovingly dubbed Wolf the Richard Wagner of the lied he was paying oblique homage to Wolf's genius as a song composer in the most modern manner In this book Susan Youens examines five aspects of Wolf's compositional art each exemplifying a different synthesis of traditionalism and modernity and spanning his entire tragically brief creative life from his first efforts to his lapse into insanity in 1897 She discusses Wolf's youthful imitations of Schumann his genius for comic songs of a kind unlike any of his predecessors his part in the ballad revival of the late nineteenth century Wolf in relation to his contemporaries and his pursuit of operatic fame Youens looks as closely at the poetic texts as she does the music and includes numerous previously unpublished sketches and fragments examples from songs now long out of print and difficult to obtain and citations from Wolf's vivid letters and other sources of the period

Proust's Songbook Jennifer Rushworth,2024-06-04 In Proust s

Songbook Jennifer Rushworth analyzes and theorizes the presence and role of songs in Marcel Proust s novel la recherche du temps perdu In Search of Lost Time Instead of focusing on instrumental music and large scale forms such as symphonies and opera as is common in Proust musical studies Rushworth argues for the centrality of songs and lyrics in Proust s opus Her work analyzes the ways in which the author inserted songs at key turning points in his novel and how he drew inspiration from contemporary composers and theorists of song Rushworth presents detailed readings of five moments of song in la recherche du temps perdu highlighting the songs significance by paying close attention to their lyrics music composers and histories Rushworth interprets these episodes through theoretical reflections on song and voice drawing particularly from the works of Reynaldo Hahn and Roland Barthes She argues that songs in Proust s novel are connected and resonate with one another across the different volumes yet also shows how song for Proust is a solo amateur and intimate affair In addition she points to Proust s juxtapositions of songs with meditations on the notion of mauvaise musique bad music to demonstrate the existence of a blurred boundary between songs that are popular and songs that are art According to Rushworth a song for Proust has a special relation to repetition and memory due to its typical brevity and that song itself becomes a mode of resistance in la Recherche especially on the part of characters in the face of family and familial expectations She also defines the songs in Proust s novel as songs of farewell noting that to sing farewell is a means to resist the very parting that is being expressed and demonstrates how songs in formal terms resist the forward impetus of narrative
