Science And The Humanities:

Overcoming the Two Cultures Richard E Lee Jr,Immanuel Wallerstein,2015-12-03 This book tells the story of how the very idea of two cultures the so called divorce between science and the humanities was a creation of the modern world system The contributors working from a common research framework trace the divorce of facts and values as part of the transition from feudalism to capitalism This led to a polarization between universalist science and the particularist humanities and finally to the creation of the social sciences as an uneasy intermediary in this epistemological debate The book addresses the contemporary attempts to overcome the division between the two cultures that emerge from science feminism race and ethnic studies cultural studies and ecology ending with an analysis of the culture wars and the science wars Contributors Volkan Aytar Ay se Betul Celik Mauro Di Meglio Mark Frezzo Ho fung Hung Biray Kolloupglu K3 4rl3 4 Agustin Lao Montes Eric Mielants Boris Stremelin Sunaryo Norihisa Yamashita Deniz Yukeseker Creating Consilience Edward Slingerland,Mark Collard,2012-01-19 Calls for a consilient or vertically integrated approach to the study of human mind and culture have for the most part been received by scholars in the humanities with either indifference or hostility One reason for this is that consilience has often been framed as bringing the study of humanistic issues into line with the study of non human phenomena rather than as something to which humanists and scientists contribute equally The other major reason that consilience has yet to catch on in the humanities is a dearth of compelling examples of the benefits of adopting a consilient approach Creating Consilience is the product of a workshop that brought together internationally renowned scholars from a variety of fields to address both of these issues It includes representative pieces from workshop speakers and participants that examine how adopting such a consilient stance informed by cognitive science and grounded in evolutionary theory would concretely impact specific topics in the humanities examining each topic in a manner that not only cuts across the humanities natural science divide but also across individual humanistic disciplines By taking seriously the fact that science humanities integration is a two way exchange this volume takes a new approach to bridging the cultures of science and the humanities The editors and contributors formulate how to develop a new shared framework of consilience beyond mere interdisciplinarity in a way that both sides can accept Science and the Humanities Moody Erasmus Prior,1971

Science and the Humanities Moody E. Prior,2018-10-15 Science and the Humanities contains five lectures concerning the discussion of the relation of science and the humanities focusing on the work of thinkers such as James B Conant and C P Snow Overcoming the Two Cultures Richard E. Lee,Immanuel Maurice Wallerstein,Volkan Aytar,2004 Explores the split between science and the humanities what caused it and the cultures that have grown out of it Science Matters Maria Burguete,2008 All earnest and honest human quests for knowledge are efforts to understand Nature which includes both human and nonhuman systems the objects of study in science Thus broadly speaking all these quests are in the science domain The methods and tools used may be different for example the literary people use mainly their bodily sensors and their

brain as the information processor while natural scientists may use in addition measuring instruments and computers Yet all these activities could be viewed in a unified perspective OCo they are scientific developments at varying stages of maturity and have a lot to learn from each other That OC everything in Nature is part of scienceOCO was well recognized by Aristotle da Vinci and many others Yet it is only recently with the advent of modern science and experiences gathered in the study of statistical physics complex systems and other disciplines that we know how the human related disciplines can be studied scientifically Science Matters is about all human dependent knowledge wherein humans the material system of Homo sapiens are studied scientifically from the perspective of complex systems It includes all the topics covered in the humanities and social sciences Containing contributions from knowledgeable humanists social scientists and physicists the book is intended for those OCo from artists to scientists OCo who are curious about the world and are interested in understanding it with a unified perspective The Old Humanities and the New Science Sir William Osler,1920 Science Matters Burguete,Lui Lam,2008 Why We Need the Humanities Donald Drakeman,2016-02-25 An entrepreneur and educator highlights the surprising influence of humanities scholarship on biomedical research and civil liberties This spirited defence urges society to support the humanities to obtain continued guidance for public policy decisions and challenges scholars to consider how best to fulfil their role in serving the common good The Integration of the Humanities and Arts with Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine in Higher Education National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine,Policy and Global Affairs,Board on Higher Education and Workforce,Committee on Integrating Higher Education in the Arts, Humanities, Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine,2018-07-21 In the United States broad study in an array of different disciplines arts humanities science mathematics engineering as well as an in depth study within a special area of interest have been defining characteristics of a higher education But over time in depth study in a major discipline has come to dominate the curricula at many institutions This evolution of the curriculum has been driven in part by increasing specialization in the academic disciplines There is little doubt that disciplinary specialization has helped produce many of the achievement of the past century Researchers in all academic disciplines have been able to delve more deeply into their areas of expertise grappling with ever more specialized and fundamental problems Yet today many leaders scholars parents and students are asking whether higher education has moved too far from its integrative tradition towards an approach heavily rooted in disciplinary silos These silos represent what many see as an artificial separation of academic disciplines This study reflects a growing concern that the approach to higher education that favors disciplinary specialization is poorly calibrated to the challenges and opportunities of our time The Integration of the Humanities and Arts with Sciences Engineering and Medicine in Higher Education examines the evidence behind the assertion that educational programs that mutually integrate learning experiences in the humanities and arts with science technology engineering mathematics and medicine STEMM lead to improved educational and career outcomes for undergraduate and graduate students It explores evidence regarding the value of integrating more STEM curricula and labs into the academic programs of students majoring in the humanities and arts and evidence regarding the value of integrating curricula and experiences in the arts and humanities into college and university STEM education programs

Human Sciences Jens Hoyrup, 2000-06-08 Human Sciences assesses the importance and value of the humanities historically and philosophically and makes the case for treating them as sciences Through careful examination of the characteristics they share with the natural and social sciences as well as what distinguishes them from other scientific fields the book argues that the humanities may be seen to correspond with the German Latin Wissenschaft scientia that is as systematic organized bodies of knowledge rather than as branches of knowledge that should necessarily emulate the quantitative and experimental approach of the natural sciences After analyzing the humanities from historical and philosophical perspectives the book presents a general philosophy of science that results from an analysis of the features that are shared by the humanities and the natural and social sciences and then applies some of these insights to philosophical problems of particular relevance for the humanities such as moral philosophy and the relation between art and cognition

What Science Offers the Humanities ,2008 Calling into question such deeply entrenched dogmas as the blank slate theory of nature strong social constructivism and the ideal of disembodied reason What Science Offers the Humanities replaces the humanities sciences divide with a more integrated approach to the study of culture Jacket

The Old Humanities and the New Science William Osler, 2017-08-18

The Old Humanities

and the New Science Sir William Osler, 1919

The Unity of the Sciences and the Humanities Herbert H. Robinson, 1976

There is a schism between science and the humanities which has come about because we have tended to categorize the elements of our world in dichotomous pairs The scientist then is contemptuous of the humanities because they have no practical application while the humanist condemns the sciences as bodies of knowledge without values This leads to competition or at best a lack of constructive cooperation between these two groups Epistemological dualism this tendency to dichotomize can be traced back as far as Plato but its influence on modern thought stems largely from the works of Kant The works of Michael Polanyi however offer us an alternative epistemological monism which can resolve the science humanities conflict and thus lead to a furthering of human knowledge Polanyi contends that while it is possible to categorize knowledge as explicit stateable objectively verifiable or tacit known but not stateable explicit knowledge cannot exist without tacit knowledge and that in fact explicit and tacit knowledge are simply points on a continuum rather than being in two separate categories If we apply this concept to the science humanities conflict then we can see that science and the humanities are interdependent rather than rival entities that the dichotomy between science and the humanities is a mistake which derives from epistemological dualism Science finds its definition within the confines of human values and is modified and directed by the humanities Document

What Are the Humanities For? Willem B. Drees, 2021-04-29 What are the humanities for The question has perhaps never seemed more urgent While student numbers have grown in higher education universities and colleges increasingly have encouraged students to opt for courses in STEM science technology engineering and mathematics or take programs in applied subjects like business and management When tertiary learning has taken such a notably utilitarian turn the humanities are judged to have lost their centrality Willem B Drees has no wish nostalgically to prioritize the humanities so as to retrieve some lost high culture But he does urge us to adopt a clearer conception of the humanities as more than just practical vehicles for profit or education He argues that these disciplines while serving society are also intrinsic to our humanity His bold ideas about how to think with greater humanistic coherence mark this topical book out as unmissable reading for all those involved in academe especially those in higher educational policy or leadership positions

The Logic of the Sciences and the Humanities Filmer Stuart Cuckow Northrop,1959 Science, Technology, and Public Policy: Articles in journals Lynton Keith Caldwell,William B. DeVille,Hedvah L. Shuchman,1968 Science, Technology, and Society Sal P. Restivo,2005 Emphasizing an interdisciplinary and international coverage of the functions and effects of science and technology in society and culture Science Technology and Society B contains over 130 A to Z signed articles written by major scholars and experts from academic and scientific institutions and institutes worldwide Each article is accompanied by a selected bibliography Other features include extensive cross referencing throughout a directory of contributors and an extensive topical index Exchanges between Literature and Science from the 1800s to the 2000s Márcia Lemos,2017-03-07 This collection of essays responds to the intense interest that the relations between the discourses of literature and other cultural practices and those of science have obtained throughout various fields of study Spanning a period between the mid nineteenth century and the twenty first century the work collected here is firmly focused on the cultural significance of scientific discoveries and practices and especially on the manifold representations of science and scientists in literature and the arts Its four sections develop from an initial moment of dwindling indefiniteness of borders between literature and the sciences to the historical perception of an increasing divide between the two cultures to use C P Snow s influential expression as well as calls for a form of convergence or consilience in Edward Wilson s words The final section turns to the medical sciences a porous scientific discipline in relation to the humanities which suggests that consilience can already be found partially in specific areas As such this collection contributes towards critically extending that integration through the discussion of key literary representations of science its promises and its problems
