

The cover of the Science Encyclopedia is a vibrant collage of scientific and technological illustrations. At the top, there are diagrams of a DNA double helix, a mechanical gear system, and a solar system with planets and moons. A portrait of Albert Einstein is on the left, and a globe is on the right. Below the title, there are illustrations of a microchip, a satellite, a classical bust, a fiber optic cable, a large gear, and a classical architectural column. The central focus is a cluster of red and yellow spheres, surrounded by several blue spheres. The overall theme is a comprehensive overview of science and technology.
