Science In Our World Set II:

Falling for Science Bernard Beckett, 2011-11-01 Brilliant examination of evolution vs creationism and of Intelligent Design by an award winning author What is consciousness Is evolution compatible with traditional religion Does time exist or is it just our way of ordering experiences Could a machine ever think What do scientists really mean when they call something a fact Modern science has unravelled the mystery of life seen back to the dawn of time and peered down into the weird world of quantum mechanics Small wonder then that people now look to science to answer the big metaphysical questions In Falling for Science Bernard Beckett shows this instinct to be misguided According to Beckett the modern fashion for making scientists the High Priests of Everything is mysticism in a lab coat Here the author argues for a new model of scepticism one which leaves scientists and story tellers to each get on with what they re best at Beckett is a powerful persuasive communicator who writes in the contemporary vein of popular science writers like Matt Ridley Steven Pinker and Jared Diamond With wit and not a little irreverence Beckett offers a history of the ideas behind recent scientific development and introduces the reader to arguments about the nature of consciousness evolutionary biology artificial intelligence and more Brilliantly unsettling Falling for Science is compulsively readable Porous Becomings Andreas Bandak, Daniel M. Knight, 2024-02-23 The contributors to Porous Becomings draw on the work of French philosopher of science Michel Serres 1930 2019 to show how it opens new pathways for anthropological knowledge Science Fiction and Philosophy Susan Schneider, 2010-06-03 A timely volume that uses science fiction as a springboard to meaningful philosophical discussions especially at points of contact between science fiction and new scientific developments Raises questions and examines timely themes concerning the nature of the mind time travel artificial intelligence neural enhancement free will the nature of persons transhumanism virtual reality and neuroethics Draws on a broad range of books films and television series including The Matrix Star Trek Blade Runner Frankenstein Brave New World The Time Machine and Back to the Future Considers the classic philosophical puzzles that appeal to the general reader while also exploring new topics of interest to the more seasoned academic An Anthology of Global Risk SJ Beard, Tom Hobson, 2024-09-03 This anthology brings together a diversity of key texts in the emerging field of Existential Risk Studies It serves to complement the previous volume The Era of Global Risk An Introduction to Existential Risk Studies by providing open access to original research and insights in this rapidly evolving field At its heart this book highlights the ongoing development of new academic paradigms and theories of change that have emerged from a community of researchers in and around the Centre for the Study of Existential Risk The chapters in this book challenge received notions of human extinction and civilization collapse and seek to chart new paths towards existential security and hope The volume curates a series of research articles including previously published and unpublished work exploring the nature and ethics of catastrophic global risk the tools and methodologies being developed to study it the diverse drivers that are currently pushing it to unprecedented levels of danger and the pathways and opportunities for reducing this In each case they go beyond simplistic and reductionist accounts of risk to understand how a diverse range of factors interact to shape both catastrophic threats and our vulnerability and exposure to them and reflect on different stakeholder communities policy mechanisms and theories of change that can help to mitigate and manage this risk Bringing together experts from across diverse disciplines the anthology provides an accessible survey of the current state of the art in this emerging field The interdisciplinary and trans disciplinary nature of the cutting edge research presented here makes this volume a key resource for researchers and academics However the editors have also prepared introductions and research highlights that will make it accessible to an interested general audience as well

Whatever their level of experience the volume aims to challenge readers to take on board the extent of the multiple dangers currently faced by humanity and to think critically and proactively about reducing global risk

Idealization and the Aims of Science Angela Potochnik, 2017-11-17 Science is the study of our world as it is in its messy reality Nonetheless science requires idealization to function if we are to attempt to understand the world we have to find ways to reduce its complexity Idealization and the Aims of Science shows just how crucial idealization is to science and why it matters Beginning with the acknowledgment of our status as limited human agents trying to make sense of an exceedingly complex world Angela Potochnik moves on to explain how science aims to depict and make use of causal patterns a project that makes essential use of idealization She offers case studies from a number of branches of science to demonstrate the ubiquity of idealization shows how causal patterns are used to develop scientific explanations and describes how the necessarily imperfect connection between science and truth leads to researchers values influencing their findings The resulting book is a tour de force a synthesis of the study of idealization that also offers countless new insights and avenues for future exploration
