Practicing Evaluation Rita G. O'Sullivan, 2004-02-04. With over 20 years of evaluation experience, author Rita O'Sullivan has created an approach that actively engages program stakeholders in the evaluation process. Practicing Evaluation: A Collaborative Approach contains strategies and techniques for conducting successful collaborative evaluations in a variety of program settings including education, family support, health, and non-profit organizations. Although many evaluation textbooks cover the theory and steps of an evaluation, they do not often include specifics regarding how to put these concepts into actual practice in a real-world setting such as a school district or business. Using actual cases from educational, health, and business settings, O'Sullivan shows readers how to better involve stakeholders in the evaluation process.

Social Psychology and Evaluation Melvin M. Mark, Stewart I. Donaldson, Bernadette Campbell, 2011-06-24. This compelling work brings together leading social psychologists and evaluators to explore the intersection of these two fields and how their theory, practices, and research findings can enhance each other. An ideal professional reference or student text, the book examines how social psychological knowledge can serve as the basis for theory-driven evaluation, facilitate more effective partnerships with stakeholders and policymakers, and help evaluators ask more effective questions about behavior. Also identified are ways in which real-world evaluation findings can identify gaps in social psychological theory and test and improve the validity of social psychological findings, for example in the areas of cooperation, competition, and intergroup relations. The volume includes a useful glossary of both fields' terms and offers practical suggestions for fostering cross-fertilization in research, graduate training, and employment opportunities. Each chapter features introductory and concluding comments from the editors.

Collaborative Approaches to Evaluation J. Bradley Cousins, 2019-06-25. Editor J. Bradley Cousins and colleagues meet the needs of evaluators seeking to implement collaborative and participatory approaches to evaluation in Collaborative Approaches to Evaluation: Principles in Use. Using a multi-phase empirical process to develop and validate a set of principles to guide collaborative approaches to evaluation, the book outlines the principles that the team developed and then provides case studies of how these principles have been applied in practice. The case studies draw on programs globally in education, health, and community development. The book is an invaluable supplementary text for program evaluation courses where students projects are focused on more collaborative and participatory approaches and it is an essential resource for practicing evaluators and those who commission program evaluations

Schwandt, Emily F. Gates, 2021-10-12 This book offers conceptual and practical guidance to social researchers and evaluators who intend to navigate the tangled and complicated terrain of values valuing and evaluating We focus on understanding how these phenomena and associated practices are at work in social research what investigators can and should do in dealing with such matters and how their actions relate to longstanding concerns about objectivity impartiality the nature and use of evidence and the purpose s of applied social research Our primary aim is to help researchers become more explicit about values valuing and evaluative judgments in their practices and to refine their capacity to engage in deliberative argumentation guided by standards of reasonableness Multisite Evaluation Practice: Lessons and Reflections From Four Cases Frances Lawrenz, 2011-04-19

Multisite evaluation settings differ from the single settings common to research on evaluation use In addition to the primary intended users there is another important group of potential evaluation users in settings where government agencies or large national or international foundations fund multisite projects project leaders and local evaluators If each project site is expected to take part in or support the overall program evaluation then these individuals frequently serve as links between their projects and the larger cross project evaluation of the funded program The field has not until now address the topic of how being asked or required to participate in such evaluations affects these people who play a critical role in multisite evaluations These issue does so in two ways The first six chapters present data and related analyses from research on four multisite evaluations documenting the patterns of involvement in these evaluation projects and the extent to which different levels of involvement in program evaluations resulted in different patterns of evaluation use and influence The remaining chapters offer reflections on the results of the cases or their implications some by people who were part of the original research and some by those who were not The goal is to encourage readers to think actively about ways to improve multisite evaluation practice This is the 129th volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Evaluation an official publication of the American Evaluation Association

Process Use in Theory, Research, and Practice J. Bradley Cousins, 2007

Conceptions of use are grounded within a common conception that use and influence can be traced to evaluation findings or to the knowledge outputs of evaluative activities Yet a qualitatively different type of use and impact began to emerge from evaluation practice and research on it This other sort of consequence process use appeared to be attributable to something wholly independent of evaluation findings specifically the activities or processes of evaluation as opposed to its products or outputs This volume is a multifaceted exploration of process use it includes methodological empirical and conceptual inquiries as well as rich narrative forays into the domain of evaluation practice Such a comprehensive approach serves to deepen understanding of process use as being pivotal in contemporary theory on evaluation consequences This is the 116th volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Evaluation a publication of Jossey Bass and the American Evaluation Association The journal publishes empirical methodological and theoretical works on all aspects of evaluation
