Galloway,2014-06-28 Drawing on an extensive study of persistent absentees their families and their schools David Galloway explores the prevalence of absence from schools and the underlying causes He shows that a majority of poor attendees remain at home with their parents knowledge and often with their consent and argues that the disadvantaged circumstances of many of the families concerned is of little relevance to teachers unless they also recognize how the pupils and their families view what the school has to offer Using his experience as a teacher educational psychologist and researcher he demonstrates that school attendance cannot be usefully considered in isolation from the life and work of the school as a whole Girls, Boys, and Junior Sexualities Emma Renold,2005 This book takes an unrelenting look at the hidden worlds of young children s sexualities Pupil Disaffection in Schools Sarah

Swann,2016-04-15 Sarah Swann provides a fresh approach to examining the long standing debates over disaffection and in particular social class differences in educational achievement through a mixed methods methodology and the showcasing of new research By observing pupils as they engage with peers and teachers in school Swann allows disaffection to be seen and heard in real events which constructs disaffection differently from objective statistical evidence on school exclusions Rather than a homogenous identity this book illustrates disaffection as layered and resting on a series of issues located on the crossroads between the cultural context of the neighbourhood and the public sphere of the school It plots in a detailed way how these structures interact and mesh to create disaffected identities Disaffection does not emerge in a vacuum or without a cause Pupils arrive at school with a wide variety of experiences and it is from these that they interpret understand and act out their identities Whilst the study in part seeks to describe and understand the social world of the school in terms of the pupils interpretations of the situation it analytically frames the perceptions of pupils within a wider social context In particular it focuses on the relationships between schooling and the wider macro structures and social relations that underpin disaffection This approach makes the research both critical and interpretative and also able to shed new light on educational policy across England based on an understanding of the role of disaffection

Hammersley, Peter Woods, 2020-09-10 There can be little doubt that pupils own interpretations of what happens in their schools represent a crucial link in the educational chain We need to understand how pupils respond to different forms of pedagogy and school organization and why they respond in the ways they do in order to increase the effectiveness of our schooling In the ten years prior to first publication ethnographic studies of pupils in schools had increased in number and importance They had come to represent a leading area of inquiry which is still of relevance to practising and student teachers today However this material was not easily accessible being widely distributed across educational and sociological journals and books Originally published in 1984 this book collects together significant contributions to the field in a single volume and will still be of relevance to practising and trainee teachers and students of sociology and education Lessons in School Improvement from Sub-Saharan Africa Miriam Mason, David Galloway, 2021-12-13 Lessons in School Improvement from Sub Saharan Africa describes the planning delivery and evaluation of an improvement programme by EducAid The evaluation showed that children in schools whose teachers had taken part in the programme made more progress in literacy attendance and behaviour than children in control schools
