Disability in Adolescence Elizabeth M. Anderson, Lynda Clarke, 2022-12-29 For all the work on disability in previous years there had been surprisingly little done on a subject of central importance the social and psychological needs of teenagers with disabilities Originally published in 1982 the purpose of this timely book was both to review the literature and to report an extensive study of the nature of the psychological problems the quality of social life and the adequacy of the services available to a substantial group of teenagers with disabilities in the last years at school with a follow up study of half their number a year later The authors show that many of these teenagers including those with a mild disability are often unhappy worried and isolated from their peers While the majority of the teenagers with disabilities whether in ordinary or special schools made friends at school these friendships were rarely sustained outside After leaving school the degree of social isolation is as great and often worse Among these teenagers the incidence of psychological problems was three to four times higher than for a control group the most common being worry depression misery fearfulness and lack of self confidence and self esteem For the most part the teenagers with disabilities were likely to be immature and ill prepared to cope with adult life These findings underline the need for a counselling service while the teenagers are still at school and supporting services when they have left Like other teenagers those in this study were unprepared for the possibility of not having a job and had not thought how to organize their lives if a job was not available or feasible The authors draw attention to the large proportion of people with disabilities without occupation after leaving school and the high dissatisfaction with day centres Perhaps their most important finding is the need to rationalize the piecemeal and overlapping provision of help for school leavers with disabilities In the meantime their book provides a wealth of information of direct use to those concerned with teenagers with disabilities and their families whether in school provision careers advice work placement and alternatives to work social services counselling medical services and further education This book is a re issue originally published in 1982 The language used is a reflection of its era and no offence is meant by the Publishers to any reader by this re publication

Annual Conference,1922 Self-Reflective Renewal in Schools Bradley S. Portin,Lynn G. Beck,Michael Knapp,Joseph Murphy,2003-02-28 The primary purpose of this study is to learn from the experiences of schools across the U S that are engaged in a largely process oriented reform strategy Schools vary in their capacity for productive self reflection The authors examine the process of self assessment that many schools engaged in during this time of widespread public attention to the equality of schools The schools examined in these cases reveal a complex interaction between the nature of the self reflective activity the schools were engaged in in this case a National Education Association school review process entitled KEYS to Success in Schools the contexts that shape the school and the readiness on the part of school staff to engage in systematic reflection around issues that affect teaching and learning The act of self reflection in schools may not provide by itself a source of new ideas alternative models and a sense of what might be possible for the school to accomplish Some external agent can often provide the impetus for or constrain the actions of school staffs in examining their programs and capacity for renewal The acts and outcomes of self reflection are inevitably guided and or constrained by various contexts including the school s history culture structure and supports and pressures provided from communities districts and states

City Schools Diane Ravitch, Joseph P. Viteritti, 2003-05-01 How the story of NYC s schools contain lessons for other cities City Schools brings together a distinguished group of researchers and educators for an in depth look at the nation s largest school system Topics covered include the changing demographics of city schools the impending teacher shortage reading instruction special education bilingual education school governance charter schools choice school finance reform and the role of teacher unions City Schools also provides fresh and fascinating perspectives on Catholic schools Jewish day schools and historically black independent schools Diane Ravitch Joseph P Viteritti and their coauthors explore pedagogical institutional and policy issues in an urban school system whose challenges are those of American urban education writ large The authors conclude that we know a lot more about how to provide effective educational services for a diverse population of urban school children than performance data would suggest Contributors Dale Ballou University of Massachusetts Amherst Stephan F Brumberg Brooklyn College Mary Beth Celio University of Washington Gail Foster Toussaint Institute Michael Heise Case Western University Clara Hemphill Public Education Association Paul T Hill University of Washington William G Howell Harvard University Pearl Rock Kane Columbia University Frank J Macchiarola Saint Francis College Melissa Marschall University of South Carolina Thomas Nechyba Duke University Paul E Peterson Harvard University Christine Roch Georgia State University Christine H Rossell Boston University Marvin Schick Avi Chai Foundation Mark Schneider SUNY Stony Brook Lee Stuart South Bronx Churches Paul Teske SUNY Stony Brook Emanuel Tobier New York University Joanna P Williams Columbia University
