Science And Technology Leadership In America Government Ensuring The Best Presidential Appointments:

Science and Technology Leadership in American Government Institute of Medicine, National Academy of Engineering, National Academy of Sciences, Committee on Science, Engineering, and Public Policy, Panel on Presidentially Appointed Scientists and Engineers, 1992-02-01 The government of the United States today is deeply involved in activities that have significant scientific and technical S T components that are vitally important for economic productivity and technological competitiveness national security an improved environment better health and many other purposes Leadership of the government s role in S T is exercised by fewer than 100 positions most of them presidentially appointed and Senate confirmed Yet there is considerable evidence of increasing difficulty in filling and keeping filled these seemingly prestigious positions This book by a distinguished panel composed mostly of former presidential appointees delves into the reasons these federal S T related positions are vacant identifies the serious consequences and recommends a series of changes to reduce the hurdles and disincentives posed by the appointment and confirmation process and to make the positions more attractive to top candidates Science and Technology for America's Progress Institute of Medicine, National Academy of Engineering, National Academy of Sciences, Committee on Science, Engineering, and Public Policy, Committee on Science and Technology in the National Interest: Ensuring the Best Presidential Appointments, 2008-12-05 The new Obama administration and the 110th Congress elected in November 2008 will face immediate challenges Events will not permit a leisurely leadership transition The prompt appointment of a Presidential science adviser and the nomination of top officials in the new administration with the knowledge and experience to address complex problems will be essential The concerns of the nation regarding jobs and economic growth health care national security energy and the environment demand informed action Each of these concerns from national security economic development health care and the environment to education energy and natural resources is touched in essential ways by the nation s science and technology enterprise This is the fourth in a series of books from the National Academies on the presidential appointment process each delivered during a presidential election year with the goal of providing recommendations to the President elect about appointing his senior science and technology leadership and pursuing sustained improvements in the appointments process The Politics of Presidential Appointments David E. Lewis, 2010-12-16 In the wake of Hurricane Katrina many questioned whether the large number of political appointees in the Federal Emergency Management Agency contributed to the agency s poor handling of the catastrophe ultimately costing hundreds of lives and causing immeasurable pain and suffering The Politics of Presidential Appointments examines in depth how and why presidents use political appointees and how their choices impact government performance for better or worse One way presidents can influence the permanent bureaucracy is by filling key posts with people who are sympathetic to their policy goals But if the president s appointees lack competence and an agency fails in its mission as with Katrina the president is accused of employing his friends and allies to the detriment of the public Through case studies and cutting edge analysis David Lewis takes a fascinating look at presidential appointments dating back to the 1960s to learn which jobs went to appointees which agencies were more likely to have appointees how the use of appointees varied by administration and how it affected agency performance He argues that presidents politicize even when it hurts performance and often with support from Congress because they need agencies to be responsive to presidential direction He shows how agency missions and personnel and whether they line up with the president s vision determine which agencies presidents target with appointees and he sheds new light on the important role patronage plays in appointment decisions
