Science, law, and Hudson River power plants ,1988 Science, Law, and Hudson River Power Plants Lawrence W. Barnthouse, 1988 Scientists spent more than 15 years studying the physical and chemical characteristics and biological productivity of the estuary and documenting the abundance distribution and life histories of the major fish species New sampling equipment and analytical methods were developed Sophisticated models of the striped bass and other importanat Hudson River fish populations were developed Most of the results of these studies are buried in contractor reports magnetic tape libraries and hearings transcripts Our objective in producing this monograph is to make this information accessible to the scientific community Our intent is to 1 summarize the scientific issues and approaches 2 Present the significant results of the Hudson River biological studies 3 describe the role of the studies in the decision making process 4 evaluate the successes and failures of the studies and 5 present recommendations for future estuarine impact assessments Resources Abstracts ,1990 Law and Ecology Richard O. Brooks, Ross Jones, 2017-07-05 In 1970 Earth Day was first celebrated marking the dawn of worldwide environmental consciousness and the passing of many environmental laws In part these events were the result of the maturing of the science of ecology which recognized the interdependence of the web and cycles of nature This volume explores the relationship between ecology and environmental law beginning with a description of the two very different disciplines This description is followed by a history of their episodic interactions the early period of origin the mid century formative period from 1950 to 1970 the initial serious period of interaction after Earth Day in 1970 and the testing of the relationship during the next two decades Utilizing a number of case studies examinations of the key linkage persons legal instruments and the migration of ecological concepts and frameworks this book analyzes the final flowering of an ecosystem regime which embraces the connections between the two disciplines of ecology and environmental law Concluding with an inventory of the problems posed by the relationship between the two disciplines and an agenda for future research this clearly structured comprehensive and stringent book is an essential resource for all serious scholars and students of ecology and environmental law Environmental Communication Anabela Carvalho, Tarla Rai Peterson, 2024-12-30 This handbook reviews extant research and offers critical summaries of key topics and issues in the field enriched by authoritative analyses of specific cases and examples It displays pluralism across a number of axes epistemological theoretical geographical cultural and thematic The first part offers historical routes through the international development of the field and explores the epistemological grounds of multiple strands of environmental communication studies In aiming to map the field broadly as well as stimulating new thinking the second part is organized along three core perspectives arenas voice and place It comprises chapters on various public spaces that are critical to the symbolic constitution of the environment and sheds light on a range of aspects and social agents that have received insufficient attention including research about and carried out in non Western countries Crucially at a time of profound environmental crisis the final part of this book discusses possibilities and constraints to social change and the potential contributions of environmental communication research to ways of understanding and responding to the challenge Resources, 1995 Report provides information on distribution abundance and health of birds mammals reptiles and amphibians fishes invertebrates plants terrestrial ecosystems aquatic ecosystems coastal and marine ecosystems riparian ecosystems the Great Plains Interior West Alaska and Hawaii It also discusses special issues global climate change human Environmental History of the Hudson River Robert E. influences non native species and habitat assessments Henshaw, 2011-09-01 Biologists historians and social scientists explore the reciprocal relationships between humans and the Biological Effects of Changes in Surface Water Acid-base Chemistry ,1990 Hudson River Assessing Adverse Environmental Impact from Power Plant Impingement and Entrainment of Aquatic Organisms Douglas Dixon, John A.
