Science And Social Action:

Science and Social Action John Eaton, Stephen Bodington, 1978 The Promise of Sociology Rob Barker Beamish, 2010-01-01 This is a lovely highly focused and interesting way to introduce students to sociology The book will both challenge and be of great interest to introductory sociology students George Ritzer University of Maryland Reason in Action Martin Hollis, 1996 This 1995 book collects together essays from twenty five years of Hollis's work on rationality and social action Explanatory Particularism in Scientific Practice Melinda Bonnie Fagan, 2025-03-23 Explanatory Particularism in Scientific Practice offers a novel community centric account of scientific explanation On this view explanations are products of collaborative activity in particular communities Philosophers of science studying explanation have traditionally seen their task as analyzing the common or fundamental core of explanations across the sciences Melinda Bonnie Fagan takes the opposite view diversity of explanations across the sciences is a basic feature of scientific practice A scientific community produces explanations that advance understanding of some target of interest but just what features advance understanding and what understanding amounts to in practice varies widely over time and across scientific communities This particularist approach brings new problems and questions to the fore especially concerning interdisciplinarity how if at all do explanation and understanding get beyond the boundary of a particular community The particularist account also has implications bearing on the nature of understanding the unity of science objectivity and science society relations The argument is elaborated using detailed case studies of explanatory model connection or lack thereof immunology and epidemiology models in the COVID 19 pandemic and the explanatory ambitions of systems biology using the example of stem cell development The argument concludes with an open ended list of potential future case studies

Managing Science Frederick Betz, 2010-11-30 What is science How is it performed Is science only a method or is it also an institution These are questions at the core of Managing Science a handbook on how scientific research is conducted and its results disseminated Knowledge creation occurs through scientific research in universities industrial laboratories and government agencies Any knowledge management system needs to promote effective research processes to foster innovation and ultimately to channel that innovation into economic competitiveness and wealth However science is a complicated topic It includes both methodological aspects and organizational aspects which have traditionally been discussed in isolation from each other In Managing Science Frederick Betz presents a holistic approach to science incorporating both philosophical and practical elements in a framework that integrates scientific method content administration and application Illustrating all of the key concepts with illustrative case studies both historical and contemporary and from a wide spectrum of fields Betz provides in depth discussion of the process of science He addresses the social organizational institutional and infrastructural context through which research projects are designed and their results applied along the path from experimentation to innovation to commercialization of new products services and processes This practical approach to science is the foundation

Introduction to Sociology Arthur Fairbanks, 1913

Antipositivist Theories of the Sciences N. Stockman, 2013-03-09 The sciences are too important to be left exclusively to scientists and indeed they have not been The structure of scientific knowledge the role of the sciences in society the appropriate social contexts for the pursuit of scientific inquiry have long been matters for reflection and debate about the sciences carried on both within academe and outside it Even within the universities this reflection has not been the property of any single discipline Philosophy might have been first in the field but history and the social sciences have also entered the fray For the latter new problems came to the fore since reflection on the sciences is in the case of the social sciences necessarily also reflection on themselves as sciences Reflection on the natural sciences and self reflection by the social sciences came to be dominated in the 1960s by the term positivism At the time when this word had been invented the sciences were flourishing their social and material environment had become increasingly favourable to scientific progress and the sciences were pointing the way to an optimistic future In the later twentieth century however positivism came to be a word used more frequently by those less sure of nineteenth century certainties In both sociology and philosophy positivism was now something to be rejected and symbolizing the collapse of an earlier consensus it became itself the shibboleth of a new dissensus as different groups of reflective thinkers in rejecting positivism rejected something different and often rejected each other

Multidisciplinary Knowledge Production and Research Methods in Sub-Saharan Africa Tobias

Marevesa, Ernest Jakaza, Esther Mavengano, 2023-08-25 This book Multidisciplinary Knowledge Production and Research Methods in Sub Saharan Africa Language Literature and Religion contributes to the polemical conversations about existing architectures of knowledge and research practices in postcolonial sub Saharan Africa It creates an academic platform for multi interdisciplinary research that brings to the fore inspiring efforts to break away from long standing disciplinary bordering thinking and practices in modern day sub Saharan Africa This distinctive edited collection is a valuable resource for scholars researchers and students of multi interdisciplinary research across the globe The volume also promotes wide ranging research focused on how to address complexities which hamper the promise of multi interdisciplinary research in contemporary sub Saharan African contexts It provides thought provoking perspectives on academic conversations about the uniqueness of embracing multidisciplinary research The traditional methods of interpretation are challenged by the radical emerging demand to shift from a mono disciplinary thinking to a cross disciplinary epistemic endeavour in order to successfully address unfolding problematic realities that demand the pursuit of novel heuristic terrains

The Perils of Patient Government Joseph W. Lella, 1986 In 1964 the Senate Committee on Aging reported that once admitted to an institution the veteran begins to show signs of social and physical degeneration a phenomenon that has not escaped the attention of clinicians social scientists veterans and other chronic care patients Assuming that social withdrawal in the institutional setting was avoidable and that a strictly medical model of chronic care was inappropriate Lella and his collaborators established a patient government project designed to give thirty elderly men in a large veterans hospital who suffered from various degrees of social withdrawal an opportunity to express their individuality and independence and to shape institutional decisions The Perils of Patient Government goes well beyond a description and analysis of the project's successful side a general improvement in the lives of the veterans on Ward 23 it also exposes and analyzes the project's failures portraying negotiation and conflict among change oriented and conservative staff of varying professional identities ideologies and career strategies While struggling over the idea and practice of patient self government nurses and other professionals did make progress but also set severe limits on what patients could achieve for themselves As well Lella's study tackles the larger question of how change affects organizations and institutions Lively and well written this is an enlightening work for students of gerontology and geriatrics for professionals and para professionals administrators and policy makers involved in chronic care and for researchers probing the fields of medical sociology and institutional organization
