Science and Social Science in Bram Stoker's Fiction Carol A. Senf, 2002-10-30 Best known today as the author of Dracula Bram Stoker also wrote several other works including The Jewel of Seven Stars Lady Athlyne and The Lair of the White Worm In his exploration of supernatural subjects such as vampirism he is clearly a Gothic writer The fantastic elements of his novels seem very much at odds with the world of science Stoker nonetheless draws upon a large body of scientific theory and technological innovation throughout his writings This book studies his blending of Gothic subjects with emerging discoveries in science and technology The volume begins with an overview of Stoker's familiarity with scientific and technical developments It then examines the role of science and technology in his various works which demonstrate his familiarity with civil engineering anthropology physics chemistry and archaeology While many of his writings seem to offer a rather uncritical celebration of science and its applications some works such as The Jewel of Seven Stars reveal what happens when science oversteps its bounds Stoker emerges as an early writer of science fiction whose work thoughtfully considers the place of science in society

From Wollstonecraft to Stoker Marilyn Brock, 2014-01-10 This collection of 13 essays examines the work of Victorian authors Wilkie Collins M E Braddon Letitia Elizabeth Landon Mary Wollstonecraft J Sheridan Le Fanu Bram Stoker Charles Dickens Robert Louis Stevenson Elizabeth Gaskell Henry James and Charlotte Bronte Each essay explores their use of archetypal Gothic elements such as dark secrets and forbidden sensations to depict nineteenth century attitudes to class gender race colonialism and imperialism The Evolutionary Imagination in Late-Victorian Novels John

Glendening, 2016-03-16 Dominated by Darwinism and the numerous guises it assumed evolutionary theory was a source of opportunities and difficulties for late Victorian novelists Texts produced by Wells Hardy Stoker and Conrad are exemplary in reflecting and participating in these challenges Not only do they contend with evolutionary complications John Glendening argues but the complexities and entanglements of evolutionary theory interacting with multiple cultural influences thoroughly permeate the narrative descriptive and thematic fabric of each All the books Glendening examines from The Island of Doctor Moreau and Dracula to Heart of Darkness address the interrelationship between order and chaos revealed and promoted by evolutionary thinking of the period Glendening's particular focus is on how Darwinism informs novels in relation to a late Victorian culture that encouraged authors to stress not objective truths illuminated by Darwinism but rather the contingencies uncertainties and confusions generated by it and other forms of evolutionary theory Bram Stoker Carol A Senf, 2010-11-01 This study of Bram Stoker focuses on Stoker as a Gothic writer Identified with Dracula Stoker is largely responsible for taking the Gothic away from medieval castles and placing it at the center of modern life The study examines Stoker's contribution to the modern notion of Gothic and thus to the history of popular culture and demonstrates that the excess generally associated with the Gothic is Stoker's way of examining the social economic and political problems His relevance today is his depiction of problems that continue to haunt us at the beginning of the twenty first century What makes the current study unique is that it privileges Stoker's use of the Gothic but also addresses that Stoker wrote seventeen other books plus numerous articles and short stories Since a number of these works are decidedly not Gothic the study puts his Gothic novels and short stories into the perspective of everything that he wrote The creator of Dracula also wrote The Duties of Clerks of Petty Sessions in Ireland a standard reference work for clerks in the Irish civil service as well as The Man and Lady Athlyne two delightful romances Furthermore Stoker was fascinated with technological development and racial and gender development at the end of the century as well as in supernatural mystery Indeed the study demonstrates that the tension between the things that can be explained rationally and the things that cannot is important to our understanding of Stoker as a Gothic writer The Routledge Research Companion to Nineteenth-Century British Literature and Science John Holmes, Sharon Ruston, 2017-05-18 Tracing the continuities and trends in the complex relationship between literature and science in the long nineteenth century this companion provides scholars with a comprehensive authoritative and up to date foundation for research in this field In intellectual material and social terms the transformation undergone by Western culture over the period was unprecedented Many of these changes were grounded in the growth of science Yet science was not a cultural monolith then any more than it is now and its development was shaped by competing world views To cover the full range of literary engagements with science in the nineteenth century this companion consists of twenty seven chapters by experts in the field which explore crucial social and intellectual contexts for the interactions between literature and science how science affected different genres of writing and the importance of individual scientific disciplines and concepts within literary culture Each chapter has its own extensive bibliography The volume as a whole is rounded out with a synoptic introduction by the editors and an afterword by the eminent historian of nineteenth century science Bernard Lightman

Muslims in the Western Imagination Sophia Rose Arjana, 2015-01-02 A Choice 2015 Outstanding Academic Title Throughout history Muslim men have been depicted as monsters The portrayal of humans as monsters helps a society delineate who belongs and who or what is excluded Even when symbolic as in post 9 11 zombie films Muslim monsters still function to define Muslims as non human entities These are not depictions of Muslim men as malevolent human characters but rather as creatures that occupy the imagination non humans that exhibit their wickedness outwardly on the skin They populate medieval tales Renaissance paintings Shakespearean dramas Gothic horror novels and Hollywood films Through an exhaustive survey of medieval early modern and contemporary literature art and cinema Muslims in the Western Imagination examines the dehumanizing ways in which Muslim men have been constructed and represented as monsters and the impact such representations have on perceptions of Muslims today The study is the first to present a genealogy of these creatures from the demons and giants of the Middle Ages to the hunchbacks with filed teeth that are featured in the 2007 film 300 arguing that constructions of Muslim monsters constitute a recurring theme first formulated in medieval Christian thought Sophia Rose Arjana shows how Muslim monsters are often related to Jewish monsters and more broadly to Christian anti-Semitism and anxieties surrounding African and other foreign bodies which involves both religious bigotry and fears surrounding bodily difference Arjana argues persuasively that these dehumanizing constructions are deeply embedded in Western consciousness existing today as internalized beliefs and practices that contribute to the culture of violence both rhetorical and physical against Muslims

Cannibals Patrick Brantlinger, 2011-09-16 In Taming Cannibals Patrick Brantlinger unravels contradictions embedded in the racist and imperialist ideology of the British Empire For many Victorians the idea of taming cannibals or civilizing savages was oxymoronic civilization was a goal that the nonwhite peoples of the world could not attain or at best could only approximate yet the civilizing mission was viewed as the ultimate justification for imperialism Similarly the supposedly unshakeable certainty of Anglo Saxon racial superiority was routinely undercut by widespread fears about racial degeneration through contact with lesser races or concerns that Anglo Saxons might be superseded by something superior an even fitter or higher race or species Brantlinger traces the development of those fears through close readings of a wide range of texts including Robinson Crusoe by Daniel Defoe Fiji and the Fijians by Thomas Williams Daily Life and Origin of the Tasmanians by James Bonwick The Descent of Man by Charles Darwin Heart of Darkness by Joseph Conrad Culture and Anarchy by Matthew Arnold She by H Rider Haggard and The War of the Worlds by H G Wells Throughout the wide ranging capacious and rich Taming Cannibals Brantlinger combines the study of literature with sociopolitical history and postcolonial theory in novel ways Man-Eating Monsters Dina Khapaeva,2019-11-11 What role do man eating monsters vampires zombies werewolves and cannibals play in contemporary culture This book explores the question of whether recent representations of humans as food in popular culture characterizes a unique moment in Western cultural history and suggests a new set of attitudes toward people monsters and death Handbook of the English Novel, 1830-1900 Martin Middeke,Monika Pietrzak-Franger,2020-05-05 Part I of this authoritative handbook offers systematic essays which deal with major historical social philosophical political cultural and aesthetic contexts of the English novel between 1830 and 1900 The essays offer a wide scope of aspects such as the Industrial Revolution religion and secularisation science technology medicine evolution or the increasing mediatisation of the lifeworld Part II then leads through the work of more than 25 eminent Victorian novelists Each of these chapters provides both historical and biographical contextualisation overview close reading and analysis They also encourage further research as they look upon the work of the respective authors at issue from the perspectives of cultural and literary theory A Genealogy of Cyborgothic Dongshin Yi,2017-03-02 In his provocative and timely study of posthumanism Dongshin Yi adopts an imaginary imaginative approach to exploring the transformative power of the cyborg a strategy that introduces balance to the current discourses dominated by the practicalities of technoscience and the dictates of anthropocentrism Proposing the term cyborgothic to characterize a new genre that may emerge from gothic literature and science fiction Yi introduces mothering as an aesthetic and ethical practice that can enable a posthumanist relationship between human and non human beings Yi examines the cyborg s literary manifestations in novels including The Mysteries of Udolpho Frankenstein Dracula Arrowsmith and He She and It alongside philosophical and critical texts such as Edmund Burke s A Philosophical Enquiry into the Origins of Our ideas of the Sublime and Beautiful Immanuel Kant s Critique of Judgment John Stuart Mill s Utilitarianism and System of Logic William James s essays on pragmatism ethical treatises on otherness and things feminist writings on motherhood and recent studies of posthumanism Arguing humans imagine the cyborg in ways that are seriously limited by fear of the unknown and current understandings of science and technology Yi identifies in gothic literature a practice of the beautiful that extends the operation of sensibility heightened by gothic manifestations or situations to surrounding objects and people so that new feelings flow in and attenuate fear In science fiction which demonstrates how society has accommodated science Yi locates ethical corrections to the anthropocentric trajectory that such accommodation has taken Thus A Genealogy of Cyborgothic imagines a new literary genre that helps envision a cyborg friendly non anthropocentric posthuman society Encoded with gothic literature s aesthetic embrace of fear and science fiction s ethical criticism of anthropocentrism the cyborgothic retains the prospective nature of these genres and develops mothering as an aesthetico ethical practice that both humans and cyborgs should perform
