Educational Leadership for Organisational Learning and Improved Student Outcomes William Mulford, Halia Silins, Kenneth A. Leithwood, 2006-04-11 The change in paradigm in our field is away from the great man or woman theory of leadership and the teacher in his or her own classroom to the development of learning communities which value differences and support critical reflection and encourage members to question, challenge and debate teaching and learning issues. How to achieve such learning communities is far from clear, but we believe the areas of problem-based learning (PBL) and organizational learning (OL) offer valuable clues. The indications are that the successful educational restructuring agenda depends on teams of leaders, whole staffs and school personnel working together, i.e. OL linking evidence and practice in genuine collaboration, i.e. PBL. The book is unique in that it is both about and uses these two concepts.

Educational Leadership Pat Williams-Boyd, 2002-04-03 An objective discussion of educational leadership from both inside and outside the school system, focusing on ethical issues, dominant models and today's unprecedented commitment to community involvement. During the last decade of the 20th century, the United States entered a new era of educational leadership. The seat of educational authority shifted from the district office to the individual school, from the principal as manager to the stakeholders: students, teachers, families, community members, school boards, politicians and corporate and philanthropic foundations. In Educational Leadership, educator Pat Williams-Boyd traces these changes from their roots in the 19th century to the present day. She shows readers what leadership looks like when it is distributed throughout a community and explains how collaborative relationships can be forged. She also examines techniques for effective leadership during the hazardous process of school reform and presents a critical discussion of 20 leading school reform models.

Paradigm Debates in

Curriculum and Supervision Linda Behar-Horenstein, Jeffrey Glanz, 2000-01-30 Paradigm debates in the educational research community are a frequent if not common occurrence How do paradigm debates in other educational fields such as curriculum and supervision shape educators understanding and practice In this volume it is suggested that educators adherence to particular views of curriculum and supervision is influential in guiding their beliefs and subsequent actions For example a widely accepted belief is that if an individual adopts a mechanistic view of the curriculum then s he is likely to deliver a curriculum grounded in pre established objectives and evaluate student achievement in relationship to formulated objectives Postmodernists contend that such educators are bound by rigid bifurcation and a constrictive linear logic In supervision educational leaders who favor leadership styles comprised by autocratic behaviors tend to create school climates that favor a top down approach to human relationships Autocratic leaders rely on hierarchical organizational structures and styles that seek to instill compliance and subordination Yet prospective administrators who want concrete proposals put in practice find modern perspectives of supervision helpful In contrast postmodern supervisors allege that such leaders disallow the emergence of relevant and authentic relationships that might occur when conventional hierarchical structures are diminished and open lines of communication between teachers students administrators become normative The chapters in this book present an in depth analysis of how an individual s predisposition towards modern and postmodern views of curriculum and supervision are likely to influence 1 curriculum development 2 teaching styles 3 leadership styles 4 teacher and student evaluation and 5 the missions intrinsic to the creation of professional preparation programs that serve to promulgate existing practice or create a new order of teachers and administrator Staff Development Sally J. Zepeda, 1999 This book examines the role of the school principal in instructional improvement and staff development Included are discussions of job embedded learning models of staff development and action research Leading Adult Learning Eleanor Drago-Severson, 2009-09-23 Support the growth and development of all adults teachers principals and superintendents in your school community Educators need different kinds of supports and challenges over the different stages of their lives Drago Severson s developmental model of learning oriented school leadership draws from multiple knowledge domains to help school and district leaders understand how to support professional growth This volume Details four Pillar Practices for growth teaming providing leadership roles collegial inquiry and mentoring Presents research from practicing leaders across the nation Includes resources to assist you in applying this learning oriented model to your school and school system
