Morality by Degrees Alastair Norcross,2020-03-25 In Morality by Degrees Alastair Norcross articulates and defends a radical new approach to ethical theory Consequentialist theories of the right connect the rightness and wrongness and related notions of actions with the intrinsic goodness and badness of states of affairs consequential on those actions The most popular such theory is maximization which is said to demand of agents that they maximize the good that they do the best they can at all times Thus it may seem that consequentialist theories are overly demanding and relatedly that they cannot accommodate the phenomenon of going above and beyond the demands of duty However a clear understanding of consequentialism leaves no room for a theory of the right at least not at the fundamental level of the theory A consequentialist theory such as utilitarianism is a theory of how to rank outcomes and derivatively actions which provides reasons for choosing some actions over others It is thus a purely scalar theory with no demands that certain actions be performed and no fundamental classification of actions as right or wrong However such notions may have pragmatic benefits at the level of application since many people find it easier to guide their conduct by simple commands rather than to think in terms of reasons of varying strength to do one thing rather than another A contextualist semantics for various terms such as right permissible harm when combined with the scalar approach to consequentialism allows for the expression of truth apt propositions with sentences containing such terms

Aristotle on the Essence of Human Thought Klaus Corcilius,Andrea Falcon,Robert Roreitner,2024-12-04 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4 0 International licence It is free to read on Oxford Academic and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations Aristotle on the Essence of Human Thought offers a novel reading of one of the most difficult stretches of text in the whole Aristotelian corpus De anima III 4 8 showing that this stretch of text contains a unitary and coherent account of the essence of the human capacity for thought Aristotle gives this capacity the name nous Nous is the first principle and ultimate explanans of human thinking The volume argues for four key claims The first claim is rationalism humans come to know the world around us via two fundamentally different cognitive powers nous and perception They are fundamentally different cognitive powers because the nature of their corresponding objects is fundamentally different The second claim is essentialism the human capacity for thought is defined as a capacity for directly grasping essences of everything there is It is this very capacity that Aristotle shows to be the principle of all human thinking According to the third claim separatism human nous is a very special kind of power It is unmixed with the body has no dedicated bodily organ and is separable from the body As a result it cannot be assimilated to any of the other parts of the soul While nous belongs to our essence as human beings it is not part of the natural world Finally the volume argues for embeddedness in the cognitive soul human nous is always embedded in a cognitive soul which among other things means that the distinctive activity of human nous thinking can only take place in the context of a larger set of activities which are common to the body and the soul
