Sub-versions Ciaran Ross, 2010 From Swift's repulsive shit flinging Yahoos to Beckett's dying but never quite dead moribunds Irish literature has long been perceived as being synonymous with subversion and all forms of subversiveness But what constitutes a subversive text or a subversive writer in twenty first century Ireland The essays in this volume set out to redefine and rethink the subversive potential of modern Irish literature Crossing three central genres one common denominator running through these essays whether dealing with canonical writers like Yeats Beckett and Flann O'Brien or lesser known contemporary writers like Sebastian Barry or Robert McLiam Wilson is the continual questioning of Irish identity Irishness going from its colonial paradigm and stereotype of the subaltern in MacGill to its uneasy implications for gender representation in the contemporary novel and the contemporary drama A subsidiary theme inextricably linked to the identity problematic is that of exile and its radical heritage for all Irish writing irrespective of its different genres Sub Versions offers a cross cultural and trans national response to the expanding interest in Irish and postcolonial studies by bringing together specialists from different national cultures and scholarly contexts Ireland Britain France and Central Europe The order of the essays is by genre This study is aimed both at the general literary reader and anyone particularly interested in Irish Studies      A History of Modern Irish Women's Literature Heather Ingman, Clíona Ó

Modern Irish Poetry: A New Alhambra Frank Sewell, 2001-01-25 Recently chapters on individual Irish language authors have formed part of publications regarding modern Irish art and culture in general Such chapters are welcome but they have excited the curiosity of readers to the degree that longer more detailed works are now required to put writing in Irish into perspective In this study of four modern poets two each from two generations Sewell attempts to illustrate not only the accumulative but the transformative nature of tradition Chapters 1 and 2 turn from the mid 20th century master Seán Ríordáin to the contemporary poet Cathal Searcaigh because the comparison and contrast highlights significant aspects of the amazing development of Irish poetry and indeed society in the period Here importantly the word development is meant in a neutral way the image used is that of a zig zag movement in the pattern of the continuing Irish tradition Chapter 3 returns to the slightly earlier major Irish language poet Mairéad Ní Dire In doing so it returns home from the internationalism of the previous chapter on Searcaigh to Ireland a major focus and concern for the more solely traditionalist Ní Dire In This switch back in time geography social mores or outlook fits and illustrates Sewell's concept of the zig zag movement of a country's culture as it proceeds from generation to generation The positioning therefore has a thematic purpose The fourth and final chapter focuses on the contemporary poet Nuala N Dhomhnaill who has managed to synthesise tradition and modernity central concerns of this book and who in doing so has become the current trail blazer of Irish poetry in either language
