story writers whose collective contribution to the evolution and modification of these unique art forms has been far out of proportion to Ireland's small size. The volume brings a variety of critical perspectives to bear on the development of modern Irish fiction situating authors' texts and genres in their social, intellectual and literary historical contexts. The Handbook's coverage encompasses an expansive range of topics including the recalcitrant atavisms of Irish Gothic fiction, nineteenth-century Irish women's fiction and its influence on emergent modernism and cultural nationalism, the diverse modes of irony, fabulism and social realism that characterize the fiction of the Irish Literary Revival, the fearless aesthetic radicalism of James Joyce, the jolting narratological experiments of Samuel Beckett, Flann O'Brien and Máirtín Cadhain, the fate of the realist and modernist traditions in the work of Elizabeth Bowen, Frank O'Connor, Seán O'Faoláin and Mary Lavin, and in that of their ambivalent heirs Edna O'Brien, John McGahern and John Banville, the subversive treatment of sexuality and gender in Northern Irish women's fiction written during and after the Troubles, the often neglected genres of Irish crime fiction, science fiction and fiction for children, the many hued novelistic responses to the experiences of famine, revolution and emigration, and the variety and vibrancy of post-millennial fiction from both parts of Ireland. Readably written and employing a wealth of original research, The Oxford Handbook of Modern Irish Fiction illuminates a distinguished literary tradition that has altered the shape of world literature.

Postcolonial and Gender Perspectives in Irish Studies Marisol Morales Ladrón, 2007

This book represents an attempt to tackle questions related to fragmented and often conflicting ideologies within Irish studies. Although a collective outcome with contributions in English and Spanish, its unifying concern has been the appliance of postcolonial and gender perspectives to the analysis of Irish literature, prose, drama and verse, and cinema, as well as to the aesthetic production of both the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland. Along the volume, while some authors have chosen to delve into the broad theoretical debate concerning the position of Irish studies within postcolonial and feminist theories, others offer detailed examinations of specific literary pieces and authors that fit in this panorama. All in all, the chapters are wide and diverse enough to trace a spatial and temporal map of the evolution of these paradigms within contemporary Irish studies.

North and South of the border John Banville, Neil Murphy, 2018-05-18

John Banville offers a close analysis of most of Banville's major novels, as well as the Quirke crime novels he has written under the pseudonym Benjamin Black, and his dramatic adaptations of Heinrich von Kleist's plays. From the beginning, Banville's work has been marked both by the presence of a complex, embedded discourse about the significance of art, and by a concurrent self-conscious obsession with its own status as art. His novels perpetually reveal an overt fascination with the visual arts, in particular, and with the aesthetic principle of literature as art. This study argues that, as a whole, Banville's work presents an elaborate and richly textured, coded account of his relationship with art and with the self-referential fictional world that his novels have conjured. It is from this critical context that John Banville's central argument is derived. This book asserts that Banville's fiction can be viewed both as an extended interrogation into the meaning and status of art, as well as itself being a representative of the type of art that is admired in the pages of the novels As such it also represents an extremely sophisticated enactment of the novel form that goes beyond the self reflexivity of late twentieth century fiction to chart new developments in the literary arts The book s critical process involves several specific reference points Firstly Banville s own theoretical statements about art in interviews essays reviews and journalistic writing over the past 40 years are synthesized into a coherent interpretation of the author s artistic vision which is thereafter used as a conceptual touchstone when considering his major works of fiction This is done in conjunction with investigating specific theoretical perspectives about the relationship between literature and art by critics such as Denis Donoghue and Susan Sontag and by philosophers of art Graham Gordon Etienne Gilson Peter Lamarque and Susanne Langer
