Modern Pots:

Seventeenth-century Water Gardens and the Birth of Modern Scientific thought in Oxford Stephen

Wass,2022-12-02 Based on a decade of archaeological investigation and historical research this book tells the story of the Copes of Hanwell Castle in north Oxfordshire and the creation of a garden with links to the development of scientific thinking in Oxford in the late seventeenth century New research using Robert Plot s Natural History of Oxfordshire as a starting point has uncovered details of a remarkable family and their rise and tragic downfall their social circle that included some great names in the development of early scientific thinking and their garden that in effect became a place dedicated to the wonders of technology The complex tale weaves together the activities of a royalist agent Richard Allestree a prodigious musician Thomas Baltzar John Claridge a Hanwell Shepherd with a penchant for weather forecasting and Sir Anthony Cope who in an atmosphere of secrecy and distrust began to gather together a community that eventually was named by Plot as The New Atlantis a reference to a book published earlier in the century by Sir Francis Bacon in which he suggests a model for a Utopian science focused society The book also chronicles the program of archaeological excavation that has uncovered several unusual garden features and most significantly of all describes in detail the unique collection of seventeenth century terracotta garden urns an assemblage that is unparalleled in post medieval archaeology This collection was destroyed in a single episode of vandalism around 1675 and has been preserved in deeply buried deposits of mud and silt Their analysis and reconstruction is opening new insights into the decorative schemes of seventeenth century gardens There is coverage of other gardens of the period and their surviving features as well as an examination of early science and how gardens impacted on its development in many ways

Harvard African Studies ,1917 Varia Africana ,1917 History and Material Culture

Karen Harvey,2017-09-18 Sources are the raw material of History but whereas the written word has traditionally been seen as the principal source historians now recognize the value of sources beyond text In this new edition of History and Material Culture contributors consider a range of objects from an eighteenth century bed curtain to a twenty first century shopping trolley which can help historians develop new interpretations and new knowledge about the past Containing two new chapters on healing objects in East Africa and the shopping trolley in the social world this book examines a variety of material sources from around the globe and across centuries to assess how such sources can be used to study the distant and the recent past In a revised introduction Karen Harvey discusses some of the principal issues raised when historians use material culture particularly in the context of the material turn and suggests some initial steps for those unfamiliar with these kinds of sources While the sources are discussed from interdisciplinary perspectives the emphasis of the book is on what historians stand to gain from using material culture as well as what historians have to offer the broader study of material culture Clearly written and accessible this book is the ideal introduction to the opportunities and challenges of researching material culture and is essential reading for all students of historical theory and method By Parallel Reasoning

Paul Bartha,2010-03-17 In By Parallel Reasoning Paul Bartha proposes a normative theory of analogical arguments and raises questions and proposes answers regarding i criteria for evaluating analogical arguments ii the philosophical justification for analogical reasoning and iii the place of scientific analogies in the context of theoretical confirmation NCERT Environmental Studies Practice Book 3 Dr S.
