1750 to 1850

ISAAC LONG TERRELL

OLD HOUSES IN ROCKINGHAM COUNTY 1750 to 1850

By Isaac Long Terrell

Ordinarily the last association one would make with the Commonwealth of Virginia would be to connect its history with that of Abraham Lincoln. However, the fact remains that the sixteenth president of the United States had many strong family ties with the County of Rockingham in Virginia. John Lincoln moved his family into Rockingham County in 1766. His oldest son, Abraham, who married a local girl, was the father of Thomas Lincoln, who was born in Rockingham in 1776. Abraham moved his family, including Thomas, then age four, to Kentucky in 1780. There Thomas grew up, married Nancy Hanks, and the rest of the story is recorded in history.

This is but one of the many fascinating facts to be found in this book. Designed to be a nostalgic look into the past as well as a means of recording existing structures, the book, at the same time, reveals the unusual history and characteristics of Rockingham County as displayed by its architecture.

Seventy-five homes of Rockingham County are pictured and discussed in this single volume. Many interesting stories concerning the builders and their roles in the development of this county from a wilderness into one of the largest and most prosperous in the state are related.

The result of a four year photographic survey the book traces the development of county architecture from the first settlement through one hundred years of growth. Along with the selected houses the book also deals with other structures including barns and outbuildings.
