21st Century Innovation in Music Education Kun Setyaning Astuti, Gary McPherson, Bambang Sugeng, Nila Kurniasari, Tutut Herawan, Christopher Drake, Ashadi, Endah Retnowati, Adi Cilik Pierewan, 2019-11-27 Music is an expression of feelings of the soul conveyed through the medium of sound But not all sounds are music It might be said that only an organised sound or series of sounds can be called music Thus music is connected to the eternal and constant flow and order of the universe to the laws and rhythms of nature It can also be said that musical order is comparable to the natural order of the universe There are laws of a certain nature in the natural sciences and likewise in music there are structures and procedures or even rules that should be followed to produce beautiful music The International Conference Innovations for 21st Century Music Education and Research provided a timely opportunity to take stock of the latest developments in music education and brought together educators researchers and members of the broader community in a welcoming forum in which they were able to express theoretical and practical views concepts research results and principles to help support the further development of music education Job 1 - 21 C. L. Seow, 2013-07-04 The Hebrew book of Job is by all accounts an exquisite piece of literary art that holds its rightful place among the most outstanding compositions in world literature Yet it is also widely recognized as an immensely difficult text to understand In elucidating that ancient text this inaugural Illuminations commentary by C L Seow pays close attention to the reception history of Job including Jewish Muslim Christian and Western secular interpretations as expressed in theological philosophical and literary writings and in the visual and performing arts Seow offers a primarily literary theological interpretation of Job a new translation and detailed commentary

arabesque is a recognizable motif across the arts of painting music dance and literature From the German Romantics to the Art Nouveau artists and from Debussy's compositions to the serpentine choreographies of Loie Fuller the chapters in this volume bring together cross disciplinary perspectives to understand the arabesque across both art historical and musicological discourses

Reconceiving Structure in Contemporary Music Judy Lochhead, 2015-06-19 This book studies recent music in the western classical tradition offering a critique of current analytical theoretical approaches and proposing alternatives The critique addresses the present fringe status of recent music sometimes described as crossover postmodern post classical post minimalist etc and demonstrates that existing descriptive languages and analytical approaches do not provide adequate tools to address this music in positive and productive terms Existing tools and concepts were developed primarily in the mid 20th century in tandem with the high modernist compositional aesthetic and they have changed little since then The aesthetics of music composition on the other hand have been in constant transformation Lochhead proposes new ways to conceive musical works their structurings of musical experience and time and the procedures and goals of analytic close reading These tools define investigative procedures that engage the multiple perspectives of composers performers and listeners and that generate conceptual modes unique to each work In action they rebuild a conceptual methodological and experiential place for recent music These new approaches are demonstrated in analyses of four pieces Kaija Saariaho's Lonh 1996 Sofia Gubaidulina's Second String Quartet 1987 Stacy Garrop's String Quartet no 2 Demons and Angels 2004 05 and Anna Clyne's Choke 2004 This book defies the prediction of classical music's death and will be of interest to scholars and musicians of classical music and those interested in music theory musicology and aural culture

In Fiddling Is My Joy Jacqueline Cogdell DjeDje examines the history of fiddling among African Americans from the seventeenth to the mid twentieth century Although music historians acknowledge a prominent African American fiddle tradition during the era of slavery only recently have researchers begun to closely examine the history and social implications of these musical practices Research on African music reveals a highly developed tradition in West Africa which dates to the eleventh or twelfth century and continues today From these West African roots fiddling was prominent in many African American communities between the seventeenth and nineteenth centuries and the fiddle became an important instrument in early twentieth century blues jazz and jug bands While less common in late twentieth century African American jazz and popular music groups the fiddle remained integral to the musicking of some Black musicians in the rural South Featured in Fiddling Is My Joy is access to a comprehensive online eScholarship Companion that contains maps photographs audiovisual examples and other materials to expand the work of this enlightening and significant study To understand the immense history of fiddling DjeDje uses geography to weave together a common thread by profiling the lives and contributions of Black fiddlers in various parts of the rural South and Midwest including the mountains and along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts In addition to exploring the extent that musical characteristics and aesthetics identified with African and European cultures were maintained or reinterpreted in Black fiddling she also investigates how the sharing of musical ideas between Black and white fiddlers affected the development of both traditions Most importantly she considers the contradiction in representation Historical evidence suggests that the fiddle may be one of the oldest uninterrupted instrumental traditions in African American culture yet most people in the United States including African Americans do not identify it with Black music

Theorizing the Local Richard Wolf,2009-09-03 Over the past four decades the globalized aspects of cultural circulation have received the majority of scholarly and consumer attention particularly in the study of South Asian music As a result a broad range of community based and other locally focused performance traditions in the regions of South Asia have remained relatively unexplored Theorizing the Local provides a challenging and compelling counterperspective to the globalized arguing for the value of comparative microstudies that are not concerned primarily with the flow of capital and neoliberal politics What does it mean for musical activities to be local in an increasingly interconnected world To what extent can theoretical activity be localized to the very acts of making music interacting and composing Theorizing the Local offers glimpses into rich musical worlds of south and west Asia worlds which have never before been presented in a single volume The authors cross the traditional borders of scholarship and region exploring in unmatched detail a vast array of musical practices and significant ethnographic discoveries from Nepal to India India to Sri Lanka Pakistan to Iran Enriched by audio and video tracks on an extensive companion Web site Theorizing the Local is an important study of South Asian musical traditions that offers a broader understanding of 21st century music of the world
