integration of localized and separate maritime regions into fewer larger and more interdependent regions offers a unique window on world history Stewart Gordon draws a number of provocative conclusions from his study among them that the European Age of Exploration as a singular event is simply a myth many cultures east and west explored far flung maritime worlds over the millennia and that technologies of shipbuilding and navigation have been among the main drivers of science and technology throughout history Finally A History of the World in Sixteen Shipwrecks shows in a series of compelling narratives that the development of institutions and technologies that made terrifying oceans familiar and turned unknown seas into sea lanes profoundly matters in our modern world
