Bassett, 2017-01-09 Excerpt from A Short History of the United States 1492 1920 Much thought has been given to the proper distribution of emphasis between the various historical factors Political institutions are the most conscious expression of the national will They determine the form of the story which the historian has to tell But social and economic conditions and the actions of leading men give color and contour to the figure and decide whether it be attractive or unattractive vivid or unimpressive This volume contains at intervals summaries of the habits and social progress of the people while throughout it seeks to present the decisions of congress and administrations in the matters which relate to the most important phases of popular welfare It is believed that if well done it thus becomes in the most vital sense a social history My aim has been to lay the necessary foundation for those who wish to pursue further the subject of American history in whatever phase they may be
