comparative historical analysis making skillful use of this selective review to offer his own speculative often unconventional accounts of our recent past Historically oriented social scientists will welcome this provocative essay and its wide ranging agenda for comparative historical research Other social scientists their graduate and undergraduate students and even the interested general reader will find this new work by a major scholar stimulating and eminently readable This is the second of five volumes commissioned by the Russell Sage Foundation to mark its seventy fifth anniversary In this short brilliant book Tilly suggests a way to think about theories of historical social change This book should find attentive readers both in undergraduate courses and in graduate seminars It should also find appreciative readers for Tilly is a writer as well as a scholar Choice Catalog of Copyright Entries. challenges the prevalent notion that mathematical knowledge is certain absolute and neutral and offers instead an account of mathematics as a social construction This has profound educational implications for social issues including gender race and multiculturalism for pedagogy including investigations and problem solving and challenges hierarchical views of mathematics learning and ability Beyond this the book offers a well grounded model of five educational ideologies each with its own epistemology values aims and social group of adherents An analysis of the impact of these groups on the National Curriculum results in a powerful critique revealing the questionable assumptions values and interests upon which it rests The book finishes on an optimistic note arguing that pedagogy left unspecified by the National Curriculum is the way to achieve the radical aims of educating confident problem posers and solvers who are able to critically evaluate the social uses of mathematics

An Ecological Theory of Democracy William Collins, 2012-12-06 There are a number of people I wish to acknowledge for helping me write this book First the idea of politics as a nonequilibrium process owes its origins largely to a series of ongoing conversations I have had with Father Richard Telnack o c s o Our discussions of Augustine s city of God and Hegel s Phenomenology in the hours before the night office led me to think about the world more as an ongoing flux than as a static rational order The use of structurally unstable dynamical systems to model democratic politics was greatly enhanced by my interactions with Professor Alex Kleiner department of mathematics Drake University Professor Manfred Holler of the University of Aarhus provided a detailed critique of an earlier version His insights and remarks were invaluable in improving the work s content and structure I also wish to thank Dr Werner A Muller director of Physica Verlag for his confidence in my work and his efforts on my behalf Miss Jane Blevins was a patient and thorough typist I thank her for her attention to the production of the manuscript Finally writing a book is in one way a moral act It requires committment to pursue a line of thought to its conclusion when the final results are not clear without the encouragement and support of my wife over a long period of time I would have certainly faltered Whatever good emerges from the work is due largely to her example and patient endurance The Economics of Complex Spatial Systems A. Reggiani, P. Nijkamp, 1998-05-05 This book argues that complexity theory offers new departures for spatial economic modelling It offers a broad overview of recent advances in non linear dynamics catastrophe theory chaos theory evolutionary theory and so forth and illustrates the relevance of this new paradigm on the basis of several illustrations in the area of space economy The empirical limitations inherent in the use of non linear dynamic systems approaches are also addressed Next the application potential of biocomputing in particular neural networks and evolutionary algorithms is stressed while various empirical model results are presented The book concludes with an agenda for further research Abstraction and Representation Peter Damerow, 2013-06-29 The author of this book is affiliated with the Center for Development and Socialization of the Max Planck Institute for Human Development and Education in Berlin and heads its program on culture and cognition which devotes its labors to the reconstruction of scientific concepts through history in a perspective of what might be called historical epistemology He is also a member of a related research group in the newly founded Max Planck Institute for the History of Science in Berlin Perhaps this double affiliation throws some light on the scope of Damerow's scientific interests In any event it will explain why representatives of both these institutions join in an effort to introduce Peter Damerow's writings to an English speaking audience Damerow's scholarship ranges across widely different areas including philosophy and history of science psychology and education Among his fields of expertise are the emergence of writing early Babylonian mathematics the history of arithmetic the relationship between pure and applied mathematics the theory and methods of mathematics instruction the transition from preclassical to classical mechanics and the history and theory of relativity Research Grants Index National Institutes of Health (U.S.).
