Matter Poems Kuhl House Poets:

Matter Bin Ramke, 2004-09 Bin Ramke's poetry has always been concerned with separating the real from the wished for or the feared In Matter Ramke investigates not only the physical realities of our world but the qualities that make things important to us that give them weight These poems often in the voice of a child are full of yearning and anguish but also an appreciation for the enhanced perceptions and small pleasures to be found among the sadness All lost things have the same voice he says and this universal voice reminds us of home and family and the simple connections of ordinary life the things that matter When I was a saint begins the first poem I did not have visions but I could see and did note the color of the world Matter is an examination of and a report on the world's variable colors and possibilities for if not sanctity then a certain sanity a kindness and some form of salvation Poets & Writers, 2005 On Tact, & the Made Up World Michele Glazer, 2010-09-28 These poems seem balanced on the edge of an enormity desperate to be changed or stained by what's unseen Continually changing scale stuttering and beginning again at the border where perspective suddenly turns abstract Michele Glazer's poems remind me of Elizabeth Bishop's in their dramatization of the human cost of our need to map and know and understand Thomas Gardner author A Door Ajar Contemporary Writers and Emily Dickinson Poet's Market 2017 Robert Lee Brewer, 2016-10-05 The most trusted guide to publishing poetry Want to get your poetry published There's no better tool for making it happen than Poet's Market 2017 which includes hundreds of publishing opportunities specifically for poets including listings for book publishers publications contests and more These listings include contact information submission preferences and when offered payment information In addition to the listings Poet's Market offers all new articles devoted to the craft and business of poetry featuring advice on the art of finishing a poem the anatomy of a poetry book ways to get the most out of your writing residency homegrown promotions and more You'll also gain access to A one year subscription to the poetry related information and listings on WritersMarket.com print book only Lists of conferences workshops organizations and grants A free digital download of Writer's Yearbook featuring the 100 Best Markets Includes exclusive access to the webinar Creative Ways to Promote Your Poetry from Robert Lee Brewer editor of Poet's Market

Salms Aaron McCollough, 2024 In his seventh book of poems Salms Aaron McCollough navigates the ancient vexed lyric landscape of the Biblical Psalm where gratitude is arrived at through complaint and yearning is smuggled in alongside tribute It is a place of recovery and discovery all silent but newly charted territory we would recognize as McCollough writes In this vision The God of the Biblical Psalter is sustained by praise much as its creatures are sustained by food Salms adopts the probative endangered position of the occupants of this psychic and spiritual ecology pinched down and hived into an insect of attention and Being seen to show the world one's insides At the same time McCollough explores the paradox long noted that the Psalter is rife with grieving imploring and cruel fantasies of retribution The path the Biblical psalms takes is a circuitous journey James L Crenshaw recently described as moving from grief to thanksgiving from lament to praise and it is a path that McCollough's Salms follows in the gently subversive tradition of the great early seventeenth century poet George Herbert for whom language offered both the soul in paraphrase and an engine against the Almighty. Formally restless and diverse, McCollough's poems move from flinty Anglo-Norman terseness through folktale to long-lined journal-like confessional, blending high modern solemnity and postmodern negation. Like its near namesake Salms, it is a heterodox gathering, an erudite and poetically masterful work of lyric intensity and raw confrontation with God and self. Its sounds and forms bind to the divine histories of the western lyric tradition at points of fragility and potential disintegration. When I kept silence, my bones roared, says the psalmist whose heart also melts like wax. McCollough's Salms heartbroken and resilient raise their voices in a world grown suspicious of sacred congress. Still they keep singing, ragged and dense, listening for an undone drone to rise between sound blooms.

Disbound Hajar Hussaini, 2022-11-21 Hajar Hussaini's poems in Disbound scrutinize the social, political, and historical traces inherited from one's language. The traces she finds, the flow of international commodities implied in a plosive consonant, an image of the world's nations convening to reject the full stop, retrieve a personal history between countries, Afghanistan and the United States, and languages, Persian and English, that has been constantly disrupted and distorted by war, governments, and media. Hussaini sees the subjectivity emerging out of these traces as mirroring the governments to whom she has been subject, blurring the line between her identity and her legal identification. The poems of Disbound seek beauty and understanding in sadness and confusion and find the chance for love in displacement, even as the space for reconciliation in politics and thought seems to get narrower.

American Book Publishing Record, 2003

Deed Rod Smith, 2007-09 A deed is a governmental conveyance, a power asserted by the written, for as William Carlos Williams wrote to Robert Creeley, the government can never be more than the government of the words. The question of ownership of the words with which we define ourselves and each other, and of whose and what claims are legitimate, is much at issue in Rod Smith's Deed, a lyric, ambitious, rebellious work thoroughly grounded in the New American tradition of poets such as John Ashbery, Allen Ginsberg, and Charles Olson. At the entrance to this collection stands an abode in the form of a long poem, The Good House, a comfortable at times soothingly humorous place that is also a site of conflict. In The Spider Poems, the mythic spider, the maker of the alphabet, is a gure of fun and revelation. The third section of the book presents a series of shorter poems chosen for their stylistic variety. Deed ends with a nod to two masters as Smith turns Jack Spicer's Homage to Creeley into a double homage with Homage to Homage to Creeley. The gesture of choosing what one brings into one's house, what one decides to love, closes the book. Deed is about making, as bequeathing, as celebration and as impatience for the true democracy that is always yet to arrive. There is still joy inside and out, and by giving us Deed, Rod Smith has captured that joy. In so doing, he tells us where we, as a people, a politik, and a poetic, are going.

The Life of a Hunter Michelle Robinson, 2005-10-15 Part detective novel, part cinematic saga part street smart narrative the poems in The Life of a Hunter form a document of expedition that couples individual discovery with communal transformation Michelle Robinson's characters are consigned to particular mechanisms of survival to various forms of physical and psychological evolutions as a reaction to their search for an acceptable spiritual condition The multiple identities of her pressured characters are susceptible to physical transformations that provide a brief jolt of anesthesia instead of the cold tenderness of interruption Robinson uses the culture of film and fiction as an analogy for the world just out of reach and the world already at hand preoccupied with what precision sounds like the figures in her poems respond to the possibility of future change as well as the fact that change is a constant in their lives Don't misunderstand It was the most cynical year of our era and anything would have been better than to have been asked to find something beautiful Robinson's is a strong young voice detached and observant yet disturbingly present

Reading Between the Lines Annabel Patterson, 2004-01-14 Annabel Patterson tackles the hottest topic in literary studies today the Great Books debate providing a superbly formulated moderate stance between the Western canon's radical opponents and its zealous protectors

Play Among Books Miro Roman, Alice_ch3n81, 2021-12-06 How does coding change the way we think about architecture This question opens up an important research perspective In this book Miro Roman and his AI Alice_ch3n81 develop a playful scenario in which they propose coding as the new literacy of information They convey knowledge in the form of a project model that links the fields of architecture and information through two interwoven narrative strands in an infinite flow of real books Focusing on the intersection of information technology and architectural formulation the authors create an evolving intellectual reflection on digital architecture and computer science

Poetics of Cognition Jessica Lewis Luck, 2023-08-14 Poetics of Cognition investigates the material effects of experimental poetics using new evidence emerging from cognitive science It asks How do experimental poems think and how do we think through them Examining experimental modes such as the New Sentence proceduralism projective verse sound poetry and visual poetry Jessica Lewis Luck argues that experimental poems materialize not so much the content as the activity of the embodied mind and they can thus function as a powerful scaffolding for extended cognition both for the writer and the reader While current critical approaches tend to describe the effects of experimentalism solely in terms of emotion and sensation Luck shifts from the feeling to the thinking that these poems can generate expanding the potential blast radius of experimental poetic effects into areas of linguistic sonic and visual processing and revealing a transformational potency that strictly affective approaches miss The cognitive research Luck draws upon suggests that the strangeness of experimental poetry can reshape the activity of the reader's mind creating new forms of attention perception and cognition This book closes by shifting from theory to praxis extracting forms of teaching from the forms of thinking that experimental poems instill in order to better enable their transformative effects in readers and to bring poetry pedagogy into the twenty first century Primary Stein Janet Boyd, Sharon J. Kirsch, 2014-10-16 Recent scholarly trends and controversies in Gertrude Stein scholarship have focused on her politics and her friendships as well as on Stein the collector the celebrity the visual icon Clearly these recent examinations not only deepen our understanding of Stein but also attest to her staying power Yet Stein's writing itself too often remains secondary The central premise of Primary Stein is that an extraordinary amount of textual scholarship remains to be done on Stein's work whether the well known the little known or yet unpublished The essays in Primary Stein draw on recent interdisciplinary examinations using cultural and historical contexts to enrich and complicate how we might read understand and teach Stein's writing Following Stein's own efforts throughout her lifetime to shift the focus from her personality to her writing these innovative essays turn the lens back to a wide range of her texts including novels plays lectures and poetry Each essay takes Stein's primary works as its core interpretive focus returning scholarly conversations to the challenges and pleasures of working with Stein's texts

Visiting Frost Sheila Coghill, Thom Tammaro, 2005 Like Emily Dickinson and Walt Whitman Robert Frost looms large in the American literary landscape straddling the 19th and 20th centuries like a poetic colossus whosoever desires passage must at some point contend with the monolithic presence of Robert Frost As they did in Visiting Emily and Visiting Walt in Visiting Frost Sheila Coghill and Thom Tammaro once again capture the conversations between contemporary poets and a legend whose voice endures In his introduction to the collection Frost biographer Jay Parini likens the poet to a great power station one who stands off by himself in the big woods continuously generating electricity that future poets can tap into for the price of a volume of his poems A four time Pulitzer Prize winner whose work is principally associated with the landscape and life in New England Frost 1874-1963 was a traditional psychologically complex often dark and intense poet In Visiting Frost one hundred homage paying poets some who knew Frost most only acquainted through his work celebrate and reflect that intensity in effect tapping into his electrical current By reacting to specific Frost poems by reinventing others and by remembering aspects of Frost or by quarreling with him the contributors speak on behalf of us whose lives have been brightened by the memorization and recitation of such poems as The Road Not Taken or Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening As the poets pay tribute to Frost's place in American poetry and history they suggest more than forty years after his death just how alive and vital he remains in our collective memory
