Models And Myths In Canadian Sociology:

Models & Myths in Canadian Sociology Stephen D. Berkowitz, 1984-01-01 Law, Rhetoric and Irony in the Formation of Canadian Civil Culture Michael Dorland, Maurice René Charland, 2002-01-01 In Rhetoric Irony and Law in the Formation of Canadian Civil Culture Michael Dorland and Maurice Charland examine how over the roughly 400 year period since the encounter of First Peoples with Europeans in North America rhetorical or discursive fields took form in politics and constitution making in the formation of a public sphere and in education and language The study looks at how these fields changed over time within the French regime the British regime and in Canada since 1867 and how they converged through trial and error into a Canadian civil culture The authors establish a triangulation of fields of discourse formed by law as a technical discourse system rhetoric as a public discourse system and irony as a means of accessing the public realm as the key pillars upon which a civil culture in Canada took form in order to scrutinize the process of creating a civil culture By presenting case studies ranging from the legal implications of the transition from French to English law to the continued importance of the Louis Riel case and trial the authors provide detailed analyses of how communication practices form a common institutional culture As scholars of communication and rhetoric Dorland and Charland have written a challenging examination of the history of Canadian governance and the central role played by legal and other discourses in the formation of civil culture

Social Structures Barry Wellman, S. D. Berkowitz, 1988-01-29 This study of social structures looks at the network approach It contains non technical articles that contrast structural analysis with other social scientific approaches It deals with individual behaviour and identity and with neighbourhood and community ties It examines the relationships within and between organizations discussing how firms occupy strategically appropriate niches It also explores the impact of the growth of the Internet equating computer networks as social networks connecting people in virtual communities and collaborative work

highly contentious issue since the Conservative government of Brian Mulroney negotiated the first deal with the United States in the 1980s Tracing the roots of Canada's contemporary involvement in North American free trade back to the Royal Commission on the Economic Union and Development Prospects for Canada in 1985 also known as the Macdonald Commission Gregory J Inwood offers a critical examination of the commission and how its findings affected Canada's political and economic landscape including its present day reverberations Using original research including content analysis interviews archival information and surveys of relevant literature Inwood argues that the Macdonald Commission created an atmosphere and political discourse that made the continentalization of Canada possible by way of free trade agreements with the U S and Mexico Through the use of a suspect research program and with the aid of a select oligarchy within the Commission and the government bureaucracy opposition to continentalism from both the majority of the Canadian population and even several commissioners was ignored Accessible to readers interested in Canadian politics policy or economy Continentalizing Canada offers a thorough examination into the Macdonald Commission and the resulting discourse in the Canadian political economy Continental Divide Seymour Martin Lipset, 2013-10-11 Seymour Martin Lipset's highly acclaimed work explores the distinctive character of American and Canadian values and institutions Lipset draws material from a number of sources historical accounts critical interpretations of art aggregate statistics and survey data as well as studies of law religion and government Drawing a vivid portrait of the two countries Continental Divide represents some of the best comparative social and political research available So Close to the State/s Michael Dorland, 1998-01-01 Examines the formation of feature film policy in the Canadian context of the 1950s through to the present paying special attention to the role played by producers filmmakers and government agencies Ethnic and Racial Studies Today Martin Bulmer, John Solomos, 2013-10-18 This important collection addresses recent developments in the teaching studying and presentation of race across many disciplines including sociology politics social geography cultural studies and philosophy Drawing on the latest research in all these areas the authors provide a comprehensive account of key controversies and debates and pinpoint new directions in research and scholarship that are likely to shape the study of race and ethnicity well into the next century Canada 2019-2020, 2019-10-09 This is an annually updated presentation of Canada past and present continues to provide the reader an in depth look at the country's culture geography people economy politics and future The combination of factual accuracy and up to date detail along with its informed projections make this an outstanding resource for researchers practitioners in international development media professionals government officials potential investors and students Now in its 35th edition the content is thorough yet perfect for a one semester introductory course or general library reference Available in both print and e book formats and priced low to fit student and library budgets Canadian Journal of Political and Social Theory, 1990 Canada 2020-2022, 2021-09-15 The World Today Series Canada is an annually updated presentation of Canada It provides the reader an in depth look at the country's culture
