Modern Biology Visions Of Humanity:

Modern Biology & Visions of Humanity European Group on Life Sciences, 2004 Ethical questions arising from developments in modern biology such as If we are genetically determined where is free will Is it right for humans to create new foods and Should organizations be allowed to hold the keys to the production of vast amounts of food globally in the form of a patent are discussed in this collection of presentations from the 2004 European Commission sponsored conference Modern Biology and Visions of Humanity Organized into four sections the contributions from this event reflect on the complex relationship between science and society and touch on such subjects as what are the benefits of science who decides its uses and how science relates to other areas of human creativity Leading figures in the worlds of science and the arts take sides in these essays in either promoting the products and services biology provides challenging biology's vision of humanity or questioning the whole approach of Western science from a political perspective The Social Meaning of Modern Biology Howard Kaye, 2017-07-05 The Social Meaning of Modern Biology analyzes the cultural significance of recurring attempts since the time of Darwin to extract social and moral guidance from the teachings of modern biology Such efforts are often dismissed as ideological defenses of the social status quo of the sort wrongly associated with nineteenth century social Darwinism Howard Kaye argues they are more properly viewed as culturally radical attempts to redefine who we are by nature and thus rethink how we should live Despite the scientific and philosophical weaknesses of arguments that biology is destiny and their dehumanizing potential in recent years they have proven to be powerfully attractive They will continue to be so in an age enthralled by genetic explanations of human experience and excited by the prospect of its biological control In the ten years since the original edition of The Social Meaning of Modern Biology was published changes in both science and society have altered the terms of debate over the nature of man and human culture Kaye's epilogue thoroughly examines these changes He discusses the remarkable growth of ethology and sociobiology in their study of animal and human behavior and the stunning progress achieved in neuropsychology and behavioral genetics These developments may appear to bring us closer to long sought explanations of our physical mental and behavioral machinery Yet as Kaye demonstrates attempts to use such explanations to unify the natural and social sciences are mired in self contradictory accounts of human freedom and moral choice The Social Meaning of Modern Biology remains a significant study in the field of sociobiology and is essential reading for sociologists biologists behavioral geneticists and psychologists Primal Vision Gottfried Benn, 1971 These selected writings of Gottfried Benn or primal visions of the 1920s anticipated in certain ways the positions of such writers today as Beckett and Genet the French antinovelists and the American Beats Dedicatory Addresses, 1916 *Bulletin ... Visions of the Human Tom Slevin, 2015-05-28 In what ways do the artistic avant garde s representations of the human body reflect the catastrophe of World War I The European modernists were inspired by developments in the nineteenth century yielding new forms of knowledge about the nature of reality and repositioning the human body as the new object of knowledge New visions of the human subject were created within this transformation However modernity s reactionary political climate for which World War I provided a catalyst transformed a once liberal ideal between humanity environment and technology into a tool of disciplinary rationalisation Visions of the Human considers the consequences of this historical moment for the twentieth and twenty first centuries It explores the ways in which the technologies of the self that inspired the avant garde were increasingly instrumentalised by conservative politics urbanism consumer capitalism and the society of the spectacle This is an engaging and powerful study which challenges prior ideas and explores new ways of thinking about modern visual culture

Altruism and Christian Ethics Colin Grant, 2000-11-16 Separated from its anchorage in religion ethics has followed the social sciences in seeing human beings as fundamentally characterised by self interest so that altruism is either naively idealistic or arrogantly self sufficient Colin Grant contends that as a modern secular concept altruism is a parody on the self giving love of Christianity so that its dismissal represents a social levelling that loses the depths that theology makes intelligible and religion makes possible The Christian affirmation is that God is characterised by self giving love agape then expected of Christians Lacking this theological background the focus on self interest in sociobiology and economics and on human realism in the political focus of John Rawls or the feminist sociability of Carol Gilligan finds altruism naive or a dangerous distraction from real possibilities of mutual support This book argues that to dispense with altruism is to dispense with God and with the divine transformation of human possibilities

Vision and Motor Control L. Proteau, D. Elliott, 1992-02-20 Since the classic studies of Woodworth 1899 the role of vision in the control of movement has been an important research topic in experimental psychology While many early studies were concerned with the relative importance of vision and kinesthesia and or the time it takes to use visual information recent theoretical and technical developments have stimulated scientists to ask questions about how different sources of visual information contribute to motor control in different contexts In this volume articles are presented that provide a broad coverage of the current research and theory on vision and human motor learning and control Many of the contributors are colleagues that have met over the years at the meetings and conferences concerned with human movement They represent a wide range of affiliation and background including kinesiology physical education neurophysiology cognitive psychology and neuropsychology Thus the topic of vision and motor control is addressed from a number of different perspectives In general each author sets an empirical and theoretical framework for their topic and then discusses current work from their own laboratory and how it fits into the larger context A synthesis chapter at the end of the volume identifies commonalities in the work and suggests directions for future experimentation

Science Fiction, Ethics and the Human Condition Christian Baron, Peter Nicolai
